INSURGENTS TO SUPPORT TAX BILL

ALLIANCE MADE FOR PROMISE TO RETAIN FEDERAL ESTATE TAX

Democrats Reject Agreement With Insurgent Bloc.

(Copyrighted 1928 by I. N. S.)

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The insurgent bloc of the senate has entered a "gentleman's agreement" to support every provision of the administration's $203,000,000 tax reduction bill, in return for a pledge that the federal estate tax will be retained, International News Service learned today.

The agreement will enable the administration to secure senate approval of its own bill, while defeating the Democratic substitute plan for a $336,000,000 slash in taxes.

The agreement was entered only after the Democrats refused to make a similar alliance with the insurgents, according to a spokesman for the bloc. The insurgents, it was added, even offered to support the Democrats on an amendment, revising tariff rates but the proposal was rejected.

The administration-insurgent alliance was negotiated by Senator James Couzens (R) of Mich. It was said. By this action, Couzens was responsible for insuring senate approval of a bill keeping tax reduction within the $212,000,000 limit fixed by his arch-enemy, secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, while at the same time, insuring defeat of Mellon's pet proposal for repeal of the estate tax.

The alliance was necessary to insure adoption of the administration plan as the senate now lines up with forty-seven Republicans, forty-six Democrats, and one Farmer-Laborite. The insurgents swing from ten to fourteen votes at all times.

"We tried first to get an alliance with the Democrats," this spokesman told International News Service. "We offered to support them in an amendment proposing new tariff schedules, including increases on farm products and reductions on some of the most offensive of the high industrial rates. We offered to go along on all their tax rates, if they'd guarantee to stand with us for retention of the federal estate tax. We consider this tax a greater issue and far more important to the plain people than any other tax question now before congress. They refused us. One Democrat even arose in the senate and announced there would be no attempt to amend tariff rates. That was a political bid for support from the big fellows in the presidential campaign."

Senator Couzens then called a conference of the Progressives. Twelve or fourteen attended it. The Democrats had refused to enter an agreement with us and there was the danger that the estate tax would be repealed. So we decided to try the administration people."

Couzens told them we would support their plan on everything if they'd oppose repeal of the estate tax. He told them that if they refused to enter the agreement, we'd join the Democrats and boost tax reduction to $350,000,000, clutter up the bill with all sorts of amendments and then filibuster until the end of the session against repeal of the inheritance tax. They said they'd go along with us. We'll keep the agreement, too, so long as the estate tax is retained. If the agreement is broken by them and the tax repealed, there will be no tax reduction at this session of congress. We'll filibuster the bill to death.

Only two rates have been fixed thus far—on amusement and club dues taxes. In both instances, the insurgents voted as a man with the administration and defeated Democratic proposals for greater reductions.

DEBATING TOURNEY WILL BE SATURDAY

COLUMBUS, O., May 10.—The annual meeting of the Ohio High School Debating League and the final round of its first debating tournament for the "state title" will be held on the campus of the Ohio State University here Saturday.

Finalists in the debate are the teams from Marietta High School and East High of Youngstown.

Twenty-five Ohio high schools, as members of the league, are expected to send delegates to the meeting, it was said.

A business session of the Ohio League will be held the same afternoon.

President George W. Rightmire, of the university, will preside at the final debate to be held in the university chapel that night. The question is: "Resolved, that the direct primary system of nominating candidates for public office in the United States be abolished."

LOS ANGELES WOMAN IS BEATEN, BURIED ALIVE

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—Mrs. Marie Billings, 36, is in a serious condition at a hospital today after having been beaten and buried alive in a semi-conscious condition, according to her story to the sheriff's office.

She said a man came to her home and tried to sell her some real estate. Suddenly, she declared, he struck her over the head with a blunt club.

Sheriff's office investigators said it appeared that the woman's assailant had taken her in an automobile into the Puente Hills, laid her in a shallow grave and covered her with loose dirt, in the belief that she was dead.

Mrs. Billings' hands and feet had been bound. She said she was semi-conscious when placed in the grave, but could make no outcry.

Later she freed herself and struggled out of her makeshift grave. A taxi driver found her on a road a mile east of Whittier, seeking aid. She still wore the blanket which had been wrapped around her by her assailant.

Mrs. Billings is the wife of Howard B. Billings, head of the Billings Manufacturing Company.

Planned To Honor Flyers
At Luncheon At Airport

CLEVELAND, May 10.—Arrangements to handle a crowd of approximately 100,000 expected to be on and for the arrival of the German-irish flyers who flew the Bremen westward across the Atlantic, had been completed early today at Cleveland Airport. Hundreds of policemen, firemen and detectives were assigned to the airport for the gala occasion.

The flyers, Baron Gunther Von Huenefeld, Major James C. Fitzmaurice and Captain Hermann Koehl, were scheduled to arrive here from Philadelphia at 11:45 a. m. for an hour's stay, after which they were to take off for Chicago, next stop on their American tour.

An honor luncheon was to be tendered the "three modern musketeers." Each of the Bremen's 100 persons, representing Irish and German clubs of this city, in attendance. Brief speeches by the famous airmen and representative Clevelanders were on the program which was to be broadcast by radio.

DAYTON WOMAN BADLY BURNED

DAYTON, O., May 10.—Mrs. Eliza Fague, 45, mother of five children, was probably fatally burned today when her clothing caught fire as she kindled a fire to cook breakfast.

Earl Buchett, a neighbor, was also seriously burned when he came to her assistance, after hearing Mrs. Fague's screams. Both were taken to a local hospital, where Mrs. Fague's condition was said to be serious. Buchett will recover.

AMERICA IS CURSED BY SELF-ANointed PATRIOTS IS CLAIM

Chairman Of Trade Commission Flays Muck-Rakers

WASHINGTON, May 10.—America is cursed with a plague of self-seeking patriots who are completely obsessed with the delusion that the road to the White House runs through a sewer, W. E. Humphreys, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, told the United States Chamber of Commerce today.

Humphreys has been a center of controversy on the commission, his opponents charging he was one of the men used to "pack" the commission.

"In such a state of mind," he said, "a man is not fit to be a member of the Federal Trade Commission. Humphreys made a scathing attack upon 'professional returners and patriots.'"

"This is a day of reckless accusations, of unmeasured denunciations, of muck-raking and mud-slinging," Humphreys said.

"A presidential election is approaching. This is the day when the self-anointed, the honor-thirsty, the reformer for pay, the fanatic and the crack-brained, the publicity lover and the professional at the altar are crowding for the spotlight."

"If you were to listen to the clamor you might believe that politics is a vast, putrid cesspool, and that the purity of those engaged in it is measured by the scandals that they hold up to the public gaze."

"In such a state of mind," he said, "a man is not fit to be a member of the Federal Trade Commission. Humphreys made a scathing attack upon 'professional returners and patriots.'"

Opposition to any investigations by the trade commission except those based upon an alleged violation of the law was voiced by Humphreys. Where the commission is directed to make an investigation the findings should not be controlled by what the political effect may be. Humphreys asserted, adding that "the responsibility of such investigations rests upon those who initiate them."

"Some of these investigations have been of great benefit to the public and some have done great harm," Humphreys said. "It is one of the highest duties of the government to protect honest business from unauthorized investigation, meddling and snooping of its own agents."

Humphreys said that "it is wrong and unjustifiable for the trade commission to put any American citizen, who is not accused of violating the laws, to the annoyance, expense, discredit, injury and injustice of an investigation."

Apparently referring to "economic investigations" made by the commission, Humphreys said:

"To say that it is in the interest of the public to spend money for the purpose of making an investigation of industrial corporations for the sole purpose of telling them how to run their business economically, is the ultimate in egotistical ignorance."

Charges that the president has "packed" the trade commission for political purposes were characterized as baseless falsehoods from "polluted lips of slander." He said the commission "is no publicity bureau to spread socialist propaganda" and that its decisions are not based on political considerations.

PLANT DESTROYED

GIRARD, O., May 10.—The N. W. Pope Co., auto sales and service station, was in ruins here today as a result of fire late last night. The loss is estimated at $60,000. Fire companies from Niles and Youngstown joined the local department in keeping the blaze from spreading. Fifteen aunts were burned and Dr. W. B. Cunningham, former mayor, was slightly hurt when struck by a fire truck.

HERBERT HOOVER IN FOR MORE HECKLING FROM ALLIED ENEMY

Senate Committee To Call Candidate For Further Quiz

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Herbert Hoover appeared today to be in for some more uncomfortable heckling on the part of "the allies" who are seeking to prevent his nomination by the Kansas City convention.

Hoover spent an hour on the witness stand before the senate campaign fund committee yesterday, answering questions concerning his organization, and not infrequently clashing with its members. Today it developed that the cabinet candidate is to be summoned again for specific questioning as to the circumstances which prompted his decision to enter the West Virginia primary against Senator Guy D. Goff.

The Hoover managers, they point out, have designated as "stalking horses" all those favorite sons who have arisen to challenge the progress of the Hoover candidacy in their respective states.

Today the charge of "stalking horse" was thrown back at Hoover by Senator Goff, and the senate committee is so interested in it that it was decided that another examination of Hoover is necessary.

Hoover testified on the stand that "a certain senator" telephoned him that Goff declined to permit the West Virginia delegates to announce second choice in the primary. He declined to give the committee the name of the senator, saying he did not want to involve anyone else in the matter, but the committee is curious and it was planned today to go after all the details.

"A senator did call me and say that Hoover would not enter West Virginia if I would agree to throw the delegation to him," said Goff. "I told him he should tell the secretary that I was not a 'stalking horse' candidate, and that if he would like to ride a hobby horse he would have to get somebody else to be the horse. That's why Hoover entered the West Virginia primary against me—because I wouldn't agree to throw the delegation to him."

"I refused to be a stalking horse for Mr. Hoover. In my opinion, such a proposition was an attempted bribe of the West Virginia delegation, and was, in effect, nothing more or less than attempted moral bribery."

Goff declined to name the senator who approached him, but asserted that "I shall certainly tell the committee as soon as I can."

GLOBE ENCIRCLER HOME IN 36 DAYS

LONDON, May 10.—Dispatches of the Exchange Telegraph Agency say that Tokujiro Araki, eastward-bound competitor in the Jiji Shimpo globe encircling contest, arrived at Tokyo yesterday, making the trip around the world in thirty-six days.

Araki and his competitor, Ryukichi Matsui, Tokyo business man, left Tokyo April 6, taking opposite directions in a race around the world. Araki passed a few hours in New York April 18, Matsui arriving on the East May 2.

Prizes of $1,500 and $500 had been posted by a Tokyo newspaper for finishing within forty days, the stipulation being that they use only existing transportation facilities and obtain no special transportation.

SING SING TRUSTY GETS LOST OUTSIDE

OSISING, N. Y., May 10.—Carline Casimiro, 24, Sing Sing prisoner, today was safely lodged in a cell where he will not get lost as he did last evening. Casimiro took a walk outside the prison, got lost in Oosting and experienced all kinds of trouble in finding his way back to the prison.

"I became so confused that I couldn't find my way back to the prison. I was looking for the gate when the keepers finally caught up with me," said the trusty.

Two of the Pulitzer prize winners for 1927 are Eugene O'Neill, above, whose play, "Strange Interlude," was judged the best of the year, and Thornton Wilder, below, young novelist, whose "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," was chosen as the best novel of the year.

ATTORNEY GENERAL WILL ENFORCE OHIO VOTING FRAUD LAWS

Corrupt Practice Act Will Be Used In Next Campaign

TOLEDO, O., May 10.—Warning to "everybody" including political candidates and contributors to political campaigns, that Ohio's corrupt practices act "will be enforced" was voiced here today by Attorney General Edward C. Turner, addressing the women's Republican Club of Lucas County.

"Where any candidate indulges in the same practices that have obtained in the past—that of spending, either directly or indirectly, in excess of the statutory limitation, whether from his own money, or from contributions—prosecutions will follow," Turner asserted.

Turner said that, as a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, he personally will not accept any contributions "from anyone, either directly or through a committee. I shall not spend a total of more than $5,000 for both the nomination and election, if nominated," he said. "My own books and records will be open to inspection at any time, both before and after the nomination."

"As a matter of clean government," continued Turner, "I would like to see all candidates take the same stand on the acceptance of contributions. If any candidate feels that he cannot afford to spend his own money, then let him limit the amount of contributions which he will accept, either directly or through a committee, to the amount fixed by statute which, in the case of governor, is $5,000. If a candidate spends in excess of the statutory limitation, he not only subjects himself to punishment but disqualifies himself from office."

FISHERMEN LOST

BELGRADE, May 10.—Sixty fishermen were missing today following a violent storm which swept the Dalmatian coast.

Scores of fishing craft were lost in the storm and several houses were destroyed at Ragusa, Italy.

DAWES AGAIN LOSES OPPORTUNITY TO VOTE

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Vice President Dawes was subjected to a lot of good-natured raillery today by his colleagues of the senate.

Three years ago, the administration failed to secure confirmation of Charles B. Warren as attorney general, on a tie vote, because Dawes, was late in reaching the senate chamber. Had he been present, his vote would have confirmed Warren.

Ever since that day Dawes has told his senatorial friends he was "waiting for another chance to vote."

SENATE COMMITTEE APPROVES ATTEMPT TO "FIRE" STEWART

Walsh, Nye, Cutting Favor Rockefeller Action.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—John D. Rockefeller's demand for the resignation of Col. Robert W. Stewart as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana was hailed with approval today by members of the senate oil investigating committee.

"It may be regarded," said Senator Walsh (D) of Montana, the Teapot Dome prosecutor, as gratifying evidence that the business world is awakening to the gravity of the offenses revealed by the investigations. If the public conscience had been aroused earlier by expressions and actions such as Mr. Rockefeller's, the outcome of the criminal prosecutions might have been different."

"Let us hope that standard stockholders find the attitude of Mr. Rockefeller contagious," said Senator Gerald P. Nye, (R) of North Dakota, chairman of the committee which exposed the Continental Trading Company's liberty bond "slush fund." "If the investigation has been a tonic to the oil business, such as to cause the stockholders to insist upon a house-cleaning and demand honest business men and honest officials, the investigation has been well worth while."

Senator Bronson S. Cutting (R) of New Mexico, who as a member of the committee clashed frequently and heatedly with Stewart when he was on the stand, described Rockefeller's action as "highly encouraging and absolutely necessary to restore public confidence in the management of the oil industry."

AMERICANS UNDER FIRE AT TSINAN

LONDON, May 10.—United States Vice Consul Ernest B. Price and other Americans were under fire at Tsinan during the battle between Japanese and Chinese troops, but all escaped without injury, according to advices received today from Tsingtao. In order to reach the railway station to flee the city upon a train provided by the Japanese the Americans had to pass through a zone over which light artillery shells and machine gun bullets were flying.

The Chinese Nationalists claim that more than 500 Chinese were killed in the Japanese bombardment that followed the refusal of the Chinese to accept the Japanese ultimatum at Tsinan.

It is reported that desultory firing is still in progress although the main force of Chinese soldiers had moved northward from Tsinan. There is considerable curiosity in official circles to ascertain the reception the Nationalists give to Marshal Chang Tso Lin's statement that the north has ceased warfare against south China.

"FIRE-BUG" IS SOUGHT AFTER FIFTH BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE

BUCYRUS, O., May 10.—A "fire-bug" is being sought by county and state authorities here today following the fifth of a series of barn fires that have occurred in this section during the past ten weeks.

With the fifth fire that this morning destroyed the barn of the P. E. Dolbins farm, a score has been thrown into the community here and the farmers of this section.

Loss caused by this morning's fire is estimated at $5,000. The first fire occurred March 7, another March 13, a third March 14, the fourth April 29 and the last of the current series early today.

Eight horses, 50 hogs, numerous chickens, many tons of hay, farming equipment and quantities of grain have been lost in the five fires.

Deputy State Fire Marshal Frank Henry is here from Columbus, where he has been investigating the fires. Authorities believe that the barns were set afire by a pyromaniac.

Four of the fires occurred on adjoining farms. All were within a twelve-mile radius of this city.

ROCKEFELLER LOST CONFIDENCE IN OIL EXECUTIVE HE SAYS

NEW YORK, May 10.—The demand of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., that Colonel R. W. Stewart resign from his post as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, was viewed by financial leaders in Wall Street today as the first move by the Rockefellers in a campaign to regain the position of leadership in companies formerly dominated by them.

In a statement issued here, Rockefeller requested Colonel Stewart's resignation because of his recent testimony before the senate public lands committee in the Teapot Dome inquiry. The oil magnate declared he "had lost confidence in Colonel Stewart's leadership." The request for the resignation was based on Stewart's admission to the senate committee that he had shared in the Continental Trading Company's fund to the extent of $750,000.

An answer by Stewart to Rockefeller's ultimatum was promised today at his office in Chicago. Although the colonel assured Rockefeller several weeks ago that he would resign if the latter should so request, it is believed in Wall Street that Stewart may decide to let the stockholders in the Indiana company decide the matter. The Rockefellers control only 25 per cent of the stock of the Indiana company.

DARROW WILL CLOSE DEFENSE IN WARREN BRIBE CHARGE CASE

Calls Witnesses To Refute Testimony Of Prosecution

JEFFERSON, O., May 10.—Clarence Darrow, famous Chicago criminal lawyer, today was expected to wind up the defense case in the trial of James Monsene, alleged Warren, O., bootlegger, on charges of attempted bribery. The trial has been styled "Darrow's homecoming case," due to the veteran attorney's expressed desire some months ago "to handle one more defense on my old stamping ground."

The state rested yesterday and Darrow immediately called witnesses in an attempt to show that Monsene could not have visited Sheriff J. H. Smith's residence in Trumbull County on the night he is alleged to have offered Mrs. Smith, the sheriff's wife, a bribe of $500.

Concentrating his attention upon a "possible alliance of Sheriff Smith and Attorney Jay Bookwalter, of Warren, O., with an organization which we will not identify," Darrow entered into an exhaustive cross-examination of each. Smith and Bookwalter are considered the state's star witnesses in the Monsene trial. Twice previously in Trumbull County Monsene was convicted on the bribery charge, but each time the conviction was reversed.

Wednesday's crowd was said to have been the largest in the history of Ashtabula County's court room, in which Monsene was removed on a change of venue.

FLYERS SAFE WHEN AIRPLANE CRASHES

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, May 10.—While making an aerial survey of the Iguala Mine in the Finca district, Captain E. D. Howard, of the American marines, made a forced landing in his plane without injury to himself or a passenger but the plane was demolished.

The stranded aviators were sighted by Major Utley and Lieut. Conway in another plane. Marines in the vicinity were notified and they proceeded to the scene of the accident immediately. The rough terrain in the vicinity of Iguala Mine prevented Utley and Conway from landing and picking up Howard and his companion.

Governor Smith told Senator Steiwer that he had made no effort to ward securing the Democratic presidential nomination and was unaware of organizations in various states in his behalf.

"What have you done about contesting delegates for the House convention?" Senator Steiwer asked.

"I haven't any plans about the Houston convention," replied the governor. "I don't know even whether I am going to Houston. I don't think so. I said in 1927 that I would not go out of the state but devote myself to the business of the state. And believe me, that business takes all my time."

"Are you contributing any money yourself to your presidential campaign?"

"None," answered the governor. "Have you made any promises of patronage in connection with your campaign?"

"None."

WILL HEAR REPORT

CINCINNATI, O., May 10.—The executive meeting of the Baltimore and Ohio Shipcrafts Federation was here today and receive the report of the committee on working hours. At the meeting yesterday, William J. McGee, Cincinnati, and C. W. Murphy, St. Louis, were re-elected president and vice-president respectively. H. L. Albert, Cincinnati, also retains his post as secretary-treasurer as the result of the elections.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Governor Alfred E. Smith testified before the senate committee investigating campaign fund expenditures today that he had authorized no one to act as chairman or treasurer of any national campaign fund in his behalf. He said he understood that some of his friends in New York City had started a Smith presidential bid but he personally had "done nothing about it."

The governor said that any money spent in his behalf in New York City could be explained by George R. Van Namee. Personally, the governor had taken no active interest in the finances of friends who had interested themselves in his behalf.

The governor smoked a cigar as he testified.

S Senator Steiwer, Republican of Oregon, the chairman of the committee, then questioned the governor. First he read a telegram to the committee from Governor Smith dated May 3 in which Smith said he had authorized no one to act as a national chairman or treasurer of any Smith organization.

"I can only say what I said in the telegram," said Smith in his deep voice. "I know of no activities in any state beyond New York. In New York friends have interested themselves in my behalf. Mr. Van Namee can explain what expenditures they have incurred. I personally do not know."

"Have you done anything about your candidacy in any other state?" Steiwer asked.

"I have not done a thing—even in New York City," the governor replied.

INSURGENTS TO SUPPORT TAX BILL

ALLIANCE MADE FOR PROMISE TO RETAIN FEDERAL ESTATE TAX

Democrats Reject Agreement With Insurgent Bloc.

Twenty-five Ohio high schools, as members of the league, are expected to send delegates to the meeting, it was said.

A business session of the Ohio League will be held the same afternoon.

"If you were to listen to the clamor you might believe that politics is a vast, putrid cesspool, and that the purity of those engaged in it is measured by the scandals that they hold up to the public gaze."

"In such a state of public hysteria, calm and just judgment is impossible. The innocent are as likely to suffer as the guilty; and the guilty are as likely to go free as the innocent."

Humphreys said that the condition is a temporary epidemic and will largely pass with the election. Opposition to any investigations by the trade commission except those based upon an alleged violation of the law was voiced by Humphreys. Where the commission is directed to make an investigation by the president or congress, the findings should not be controlled by what the political effect may be, Humphreys asserted, adding that "the responsibility of such investigations rests upon those who initiate them."

Humphreys said that "it is wrong and unjustifiable for the trade commission to put any American citizen, who is not accused of violating the laws, to the annoyance, expense, discredit, injury and injustice of an investigation."

Apparently referring to "economic investigations" made by the commission, Humphreys said:

"To say that it is in the interest of the public to spend money for the purpose of making an investigation of industrial corporations for the sole purpose of telling them that 'the industrial business economically, is the ultimate in egotistical ignorance.'"

Charges that the president has "packed" the trade commission for political purposes were characterized as baseless falsehoods from "polluted lips of slander." He said the commission "is no publicity bureau to spread socialist propaganda" and that its decisions are not based on political considerations.

HERBERT HOOVER IN FOR MORE HECKLING FROM ALLIED ENEMY

Senate Committee To Call Candidate For Further Quiz

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Herbert Hoover appeared today to be in for some more uncomfortable heckling on the part of "the allies" who are seeking to prevent his nomination by the Kansas City convention.

Hoover spent an hour on the witness stand before the senate campaign fund committee yesterday, answering questions concerning his organization, and not infrequently clashing with its members. Today it developed that the cabinet candidate is to be summoned again for specific questioning as to the circumstances which prompted his decision to enter the West Virginia primary against Senator Guy D. Goff.

The Hoover managers, they point out, have designated as "stalking horses" all those favorite sons who have arisen to challenge the progress of the Hoover candidacy in their respective states.

Today the charge of "stalking horses" was thrown back at Hoover by Senator Goff, and the senate committee is so interested in it that it was decided that another examination of Hoover is necessary.

Hoover testified on the stand that "a certain senator" telephoned him that Goff declined to permit the West Virginia delegates to announce second choice in the primary. He declined to give the committee the name of the senator, saying he did not want to involve any one else in the matter, but the committee is curious and it was planned today to go after all the details.

A senator did call me and say that Hoover would not enter West Virginia if I would agree to throw the delegation to him," said Goff. "I told him he should tell the secretary that I was not a 'stalking horse' candidate, and that if he wanted to ride a hobby horse he would have to get somebody else to be the horse. That's why Virginia entered the West Virginia primary against me—because I wouldn't agree to throw the delegation to him."

"I refused to be a stalking horse for Mr. Hoover. In my opinion, such a proposition was an attempted bribe of the West Virginia delegation, and was, in effect, nothing more or less than attempted moral bribery."

Goff declined to name the senator who approached him, but asserted that "I shall certainly tell the committee as much as I can."

GLOBE ENCIRCLER HOME IN 36 DAYS

LONDON, May 10.—Dispatches of the Exchange Telegraph Agency say that Toichiro Araki, eastward bound competitor in the Jiji Shimo delocho encircling contest, arrived at Tokyo yesterday, making the trip around the world in thirty-six days.

Araki and his competitor, Ryukichi Matsui, Tokyo business man, left Tokyo April 6, taking opposite directions in a race around the world. Araki passed a few hours in New York April 18, Matsui arriving from the East May 2.

Prizes of $1,500 and $500 had been posted by a Tokyo newspaper for finishing within forty days, the stipulation being that they use only existing transportation facilities and obtain no special transportation.

SING SING TRUSTY GETS LOST OUTSIDE

OSSINING, N. Y., May 10.—Carmine Casimiro, 24, Sing Sing prison trusty, today was safely lodged in a cell where he will not get lost as he did last evening. Casimiro, a walk outside the prison, got lost in Ossining and experienced all kinds of trouble in finding his way back to the prison.

"I became so confused that I couldn't find my way back to the prison. I was looking for the gate when the keepers finally caught up with me," said the trusty.

Pulitzer Winners

Two of the Pulitzer prize winners for 1927 are Eugene O'Neill, above, whose play, "Strange Interlude," was judged the best of the year, and Thornton Wilder, below, young novelist, whose "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," was chosen as the best novel of the year.

ATTORNEY GENERAL WILL ENFORCE OHIO VOTING FRAUD LAWS

Corrupt Practice Act Will Be Used In Next Campaign

TOLEDO, O., May 10.—Warning to "everybody" including political candidates and contributors to political campaigns, that Ohio's corrupt practices act "will be enforced" was voiced here today by Attorney General Edward C. Turner, addressing the women's Republican Club of Lucas County.

"Where any candidate indulges in the same practices that have obtained in the past—that of spending, either directly or indirectly, in excess of the statutory limitation, whether from his own money, or from contributions—prosecutions will follow," Turner asserted.

Turner said that, as a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, he personally will not accept any contributions "from anyone, either directly, or through a committee. I shall not spend a total of more than $5,000 for both the nomination and election. If nominated," he said, "My own books and records will be open to inspection at any time, both before and after the nomination."

"As a matter of clean government," continued Turner, "I would like to see all candidates take the same stand on the acceptance of contributions. If any candidate feels that he cannot afford to spend his own money, then let him limit the amount of contributions which he will accept, either directly or through a committee, to the amount fixed by statute which, in the case of governor, is $5,000. If a candidate spends in excess of the statutory limitation, he not only subjects himself to punishment but disqualifies himself from office."

FISHERMEN LOST

BELGRADE, May 10.—Sixty fishermen were missing today following a violent storm which swept the Dalmatian coast.

Scores of fishing craft were lost in the storm and several houses were destroyed at Ragusa, Italy.

DAWES AGAIN LOSES OPPORTUNITY TO VOTE

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Vice President Dawes was subjected to a lot of good-natured raillery today by his colleagues of the senate.

Three years ago, the administration failed to secure confirmation of Charles B. Warren as attorney general on a tie vote, because Dawes was late in reaching the senate chamber. Had he been present, his vote would have confirmed Warren.

SENATE COMMITTEE APPROVES ATTEMPT TO "FIRE" STEWART

Walsh, Nye, Cutting Favor Rockefeller Action.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—John D. Rockefeller's demand for the resignation of Col. Robert W. Stewart as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana was hailed with approval today by members of the senate oil investigating committee.

"It may be regarded," said Senator Walsh (D) of Montana, the Teapot Dome prosecutor, "as gratifying evidence that the business world is awakening to the gravity of the offense revealed by the investigations. If the public conscience had been aroused earlier by expressions and actions such as Mr. Rockefeller's, the outcome of the criminal prosecutions might have been different."

"Let us hope that standard stockholders find the attitude of Mr. Rockefeller contagious," said Senator Gerald P. Nye, (R) of North Dakota, chairman of the committee which exposed the Continental Trading Company's liberty bond "slush fund" if the investigation has been a tonic to the oil business, such as to cause the stockholders to insist upon a housecleaning and demand honest business men and honest officials, the investigation has been well worth while."

Senator Bronson S. Cutting (R) of New Mexico, who as a member of the committee clashed frequently and heatedly with Stewart when he was on the stand, described Rockefeller's action as "highly encouraging and absolutely necessary to restore public confidence in the management of the oil industry."

AMERICANS UNDER FIRE AT TSINAN

LONDON, May 10.—United States Vice Consul Ernest B. Price and other Americans were under fire at Tsinan during the battle between Japanese and Chinese troops but all escaped without injury, according to advices received today from Tsingtau. In order to reach the railway station to flee the city upon a train provided by the Japanese, the Americans had to pass through a zone over which light artillery shells and machine gun bullets were flying.

The Chinese Nationalists claim that more than 500 Chinese were killed in the Japanese bombardment that followed the refusal of the Chinese to accept the Japanese ultimatum at Tsinan.

It is reported that desultory firing is still in progress although the main force of Chinese soldiers had moved northward from Tsinan. There is considerable curiosity in official circles to ascertain the reception the Nationalists gave to Marshal Chang Tso Lin's statement that the north has ceased warfare against south China.

"FIRE-BUG" IS SOUGHT AFTER FIFTH BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE

BUCHYRUS, O., May 10.—A "fire-bug" is being sought by county and state authorities here today following the fifth of a series of barn fires that have occurred in this section during the past ten weeks.

With the fifth fire that this morning destroyed the barn of the Henry E. Dobbins farm, a scare has been thrown into the community here and the farmers of this section.

Loss caused by this morning's fire is estimated at $5,000. The first fire occurred March 7, another March 13, a third March 14, the fourth April 20 and the last of the current series early today.

Eight horses, 50 hogs, numerous chickens, many tons of hay, farming equipment and quantities of grain have been lost in the five fires.

Deputy State Fire Marshal Frank Henry is here from Columbus to make an investigation of the fires. Authorities believe that the barns were set afire by a pyromaniac.

Four of the fires occurred on adjoining farms. All were within a twelve-mile radius of this city.

ROCKEFELLER LOST CONFIDENCE IN OIL EXECUTIVE HE SAYS

NEW YORK, May 10.—The demand of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., that Colonel R. W. Stewart resign from his post as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, was viewed by financial leaders in Wall Street today as the first move by the Rockefeller in a campaign to regain the position of leadership in companies formerly dominated by them.

In a statement issued here, Rockefeller requested Colonel Stewart's resignation because of his recent testimony before the senate public lands committee in the Teapot Dome inquiry. The oil magnate declared he "had lost confidence in Colonel Stewart's leadership."

The request for the resignation was based on Stewart's admission to the Teapot Dome committee that he had shared in the Continental Trading Company's fund to the extent of $750,000.

An answer by Stewart to Rockefeller's ultimatum was promised today at his office in Chicago. Although the colonel assured Rockefeller several weeks ago that he would resign if the latter should so request, it is believed that Wall Street may decide to let the stockholders in the Indiana company decide the matter. The Rockefeller control only 25 per cent of the stock of the Indiana company.

DARROW WILL CLOSE DEFENSE IN WARREN BRIBE CHARGE CASE

JEFFERSON, O., May 10.—Clarence Darrow, famous Chicago criminal lawyer, today was expected to wind up the defense case in the trial of James Monsene, alleged Warren, O., bootlegger, on charges of attempted bribery. The trial has been styled "Darrow's homecoming case," due to the veteran attorney's expressed desire some months ago "to handle one more defense on my old stomping ground."

The state rested yesterday and Darrow immediately called witnesses in an attempt to show that Monsene could not have visited Sheriff J. H. Smith's residence in Trumbull County on the night he is alleged to have offered Mrs. Smith, the sheriff's wife, a bribe of $500.

Concentrating his attention upon a "possible alliance of Sheriff Smith and Attorney Jay Bookwalter, of Warren, O., with an organization which will not identify itself," Darrow entered into an exhaustive cross-examination of each Smith and Bookwalter are considered the state's star witnesses in this, Monsene's third trial. Twice previously in Trumbull County Monsene was convicted on the bribery charge, but each time the conviction was reversed.

Wednesday's crowd was said to have been the largest in the history of Ashtabula County's court room, to which Monsene was removed on a change of venue.

FLYERS SAFE WHEN AIRPLANE CRASHES

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, May 10.—While making an aerial survey of the Luz Mine in the Pis Pis district, Captain E. D. Howard, of the American marines, made a forced landing in his plane with out injury to himself or a passenger but the plane was demolished.

The stranded aviators were sighted by Major Utley and Lieut. Conway in another plane. Marines in the vicinity were notified and they proceeded to the scene of the accident immediately. The rough terrain in the vicinity of Luzul Mine prevented Utley and Conway from landing and picking up Howard and his companion.

"I haven't any plans about the Houston convention," replied the governor. "I don't know even whether I am going to Houston. I don't think so. I said in 1927 that I would not go out of the state but devote myself to the business of the state. And believe me, that business takes all my time."

"Are you contributing any money yourself to your presidential campaign?"

"Nope," answered the governor. "Have you made any promises of patronage in connection with your campaign?"

"Nope."

CINCINNATI, O., May 10.—The executive meeting of the Baltimore and Ohio Shopcrafts Federation was to convene in final session here today and receive the report of the committee on working hours at the meeting yesterday, William J. McGee, Cincinnati, and C. W. Murphy, St. Louis, were re-elected president and vice-president respectively. H. L. Albert, Cincinnati also retains his post as secretary treasurer as the result of the elections.

GOVERNOR CLAIMS HE KNOWS NOTHING OF CAMPAIGN FUNDS

H a s Authorized No Treasurer Senate Probers Learn

NEW YORK, May 10.—Governor Alfred E. Smith testified before the senate committee investigating campaign fund expenditures today that he had authorized no one to act as chairman or treasurer of any national campaign fund in his behalf. He said he understood that some of his friends in New York City had started a Smith presidential boom but he personally had "done nothing about it."

The governor said that any money spent in his behalf in New York City could be explained by George R. Van Namee. Personally, the governor had taken no active interest in the finances of friends who had interested themselves in his behalf.

The governor smoked a cigar as he testified.

Senator Steiwer, Republican of Oregon, the chairman of the committee, then questioned the governor. First he read a telegram to the committee from Governor Smith dated May 3 in which Smith said he had authorized no one to act as a national chairman or treasurer of any Smith organization.

"I can only say what I said in the telegram," said Smith in his deep voice. "I know of no activities in any state beyond New York. In New York friends have interested themselves in my behalf. Mr. Van Namee can explain what expenditures they have incurred. I personally do not know."

"Have you done anything about your candidacy in any other state?" Steiwer asked.

"I have not done a thing—even in New York City," the governor replied.

Governor Smith told Senator Steiwer he had made no effort to secure the nomination and was unaware of organizations in various states in his behalf.

"What have you done about contesting delegates for the Houston convention?" Senator Steiwer asked.

"Are you contributing any money yourself to your presidential campaign?"

BUSINESS PREFERS
FLAPPERS; SEDATE
ARE REFUSED JOBS

CHICAGO, May 10.—The average Mr. Business man when he sets out to hire a stenographer, filing clerk or woman switchboard operator, wants 'em "young and good-looking."

"No one over 25 need apply."

That sort of sentence has created a panic regarded of serious proportions among women of middle age in Chicago who must earn their own living.

Mrs. Minnie M. Chapman, general superintendent of the Woman's Church Federation Protectorate, addressing a large group of women at a recent session here, made the charge that the city's shrewdest business men openly prefer the irresponsibility of youth to the sedate efficiency of middle age in hiring women employees.

Charge is Sustained

A canvass of leading employment agencies and interviews with job-hunters corroborated Mrs. Chapman's charge. At a large agency conducted here by one of the largest makers of typewriters, the woman in charge, middle-aged, said that of all the women she sent out for prospective positions those "under 25" were the ones most readily accepted.

Coming in contact with thousands of women, old, middle-aged and young, the head of the employment bureau has had an excellent opportunity to judge the needs of the modern business men and the women who apply for positions.

"Nine times out of ten I will send some silly little flapper without an ounce of brains in her head to a firm that I know from experience would not employ a capable woman and the flapper lands the job."

Lawyers, as a rule, hire middle-aged women for their stenographers more than any other type of men, I have found. Contractors are not quite so particular. Business men past 50 years of age, if they are not silly and in their second childhood, usually wish capable women over 30 or 35 years of age.

"It's the young men, about 27 or so, recently promoted to a position where their boss lets them hire a stenographer that bother the life out of me for young and pretty girls."

"I have found that when a man has really complicated work to be done, such as in a law office with its difficult phraseology of words, he wants a good stenographer regardless of height, size, weight, age or nationality."

"These days a stenographer truly must have 'it' to get a job."

BUSINESS PREFERS FLAPPERS; SEDATE ARE REFUSED JOBS

CHICAGO, May 10.—The average Mr. Business man when he sets out to hire a stenographer, filing clerk or woman switchboard operator, wants "em" young and good-looking.

"No one over 25 need apply." That short sentence has created a panic regard of serious proportions among women of middle age in Chicago who must earn their own living.

Mrs. Minnie M. Chapman, general superintendent of the Woman's Church Federation, Protector of women at a recent session here, made the charge that the city's shrewdest business men openly prefer the irresponsibility of youth to the sedate efficiency of middle age in hiring women employees.

Charge is Sustained
A canvass of leading employment agencies and interviews with job-hunters corroborated Mrs. Chapman's charge. At a large agency conducted here by one of the largest makers of typewriters, said that of all the women she sent out for prospective positions those "under 25" were the ones most readily accepted.

Coming in contact with thousands of women, old, middle-aged and young, the head of the employment bureau has had an excellent opportunity to judge the needs of the modern business men and the women who apply for positions.

"Nine times out of ten I will send some silly little flapper with out an ounce of brains in her head to a firm that I know from experience would not employ a capable woman and the flapper lands the job."

"Lawyers, as a rule, hire middle-aged women for their stenographers more than any other type of men. I have found. Contractors are not quite so particular. Business men past 50 years of age, if they are not silly and in their second childhood, usually wish capable women over 30 or 35 years of age."

"It's the young men, about 27 or so, recently promoted to a position where their boss lets them hire a stenographer that bother the life out of me for young and pretty girls."

"I have found that when a man has really complicated work to be done, such as in a law office with its difficult phraseology of words, he wants a good stenographer regardless of height, size, weight, age or nationality."

"These days a stenographer truly must have 'it' to get a job."

CAN'T PRAISE IT ENOUGH

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her So Much

Kingston, Mo.—"I have not taken anything but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for 18 months and I cannot praise it enough. I weighed about 100 pounds and was not able to do any kind of work. My housework was done by my mother and my out-of-door work was not done. I have taken four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and now I am well and strong and feel fine. I got my sister-in-law to take it after her last baby came and she is stronger now. I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. HATTIE V. EASTIN, R. 1, Kingston, Missouri.

Farm Notes

POTATO SEED MAY ROT

Poor stands of potatoes in late planting are often caused by the seed pieces rotting in the hot soil. If the soil temperature is above 70 degrees at planting, cut seed is almost certain to rot.

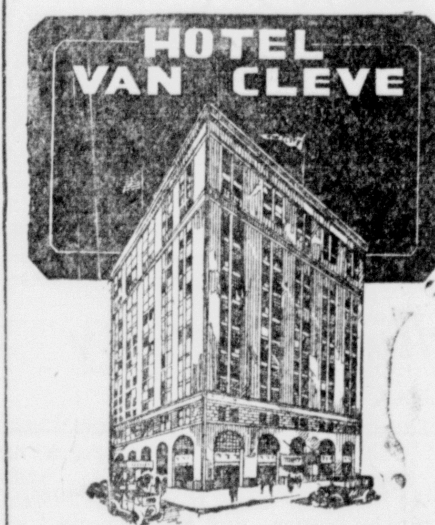

No method of preventing rotting in hot ground has proved successful. In laboratory experiments made by John Bushnell, potato specialist at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, seed pieces rotted in sterilized soil at 77 degrees as rapidly as in ordinary soil at the same temperature.

None of the ordinary treatments, such as mercury bichloride or formaldehyde, were effective in preventing the seed from rotting. Small whole tubers are less likely to rot than cut pieces.

It is important, Bushnell says, to plant potatoes in cool soil. There is little danger of the soil's being too cold. For the last five years plantings in early April at the Experiment Station have given perfect stands, while in the same experiments many of the June plantings resulted in poor stands.

Planting before the first of June is recommended for both early and late varieties grown for market. Dr. Bushnell's recommendations for the time of planting potatoes for best yields in different parts of the state are given in Bulletin 339, which may be obtained by writing the Experiment Station, Wooster, O.

RABBIT DISEASE IS TOPIC OF DOCTORS

"Tularemia," otherwise known as "rabbit disease" was the topic discussed in a paper presented by Dr. Walter Simpson, pathologist of Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, before the Greene County Medical Society, Thursday noon.

The physicians met, as usual, in the county health commissioner's office in the Court House. Dr. Simpson's paper was the only program feature.

to his office of rioting at Coal Ridge, Noble County, last night.

Colonel Christy, National Guard observer in the Coal Ridge area, will make a personal report of last night's outbreak to General Henderson today.

POTATO SEED MAY ROT

Poor stands of potatoes in late plantings are often caused by the seed pieces rotting in the hot soil. If the soil temperature is above 70 degrees at planting, cut seed is almost certain to rot.

No method of preventing rotting in hot ground has proved successful. In laboratory experiments made by John Bushnell, potato specialist at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, seed pieces rotted in six-inch soil at 77 degrees as rapidly as in ordinary soil at the same temperature.

None of the ordinary treatments, such as mercury bichloride or formaldehyde, were effective in preventing the rot. From rotting, small whole tubers are less likely to rot than cut pieces.

It is important, Bushnell says, to plant potatoes in cool soil. There is little danger of the soil's being

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

TRUE RICHES—The blessing of the Lord, it maketh rich, and he addeth no sorrow with it.—Prov. 10:22.

THE SUMMER "WHITE HOUSE"

President Coolidge is getting many invitations to come to the various states to spend his summer vacation. These result not merely from personal regard for the man and the office, but from a natural desire for the advertising that comes from such a selection.

It is a part of the game of modern progress to attract visitors to one's home locality, and the state that gets the president as a summer visitor gets a big boost. A host of people will follow him, spend their money there, and the state becomes a center of public interest.

The receipt of all these invitations indicates that the states are very alert and wide awake in promoting their own interests. They are competing to see which shall be the best known, and considered most desirable for vacation or permanent residence. This alert spirit is one reason why our country goes ahead. When localities compete for superiority, they try to achieve it by merit.

BRIGHT COLORS HELP

The educational authorities of Liverpool, England, recently decorated their schoolhouses with bright colors, inside and out, on the theory that the working hours of the pupils will thereby be brightened, and better study will result.

No one can doubt that pupils will study better in a well maintained schoolhouse than they will in a shabby one. A poor looking school is not a good incentive to ambition, and pupils attending there would probably be slack about their work. But when the schoolhouse is made neat, trim, and attractive, there is a powerful suggestion to the children that their work must be done in a finished way.

WHY ARE THEY "PROMINENT" PEOPLE?

It was recently noted that 80 per cent of the men whose names appear in a list of prominent citizens of Chicago, were born in small towns. Probably the same thing might be true in many places. That fact suggests some reasons:

The people from small towns are not out of the game of modern life. These towns contain many of the brightest minds of the nation. Life in those towns gives opportunity for reading and reflection, and these people are apt to have more than average intelligence.

The people of the larger places need in their own life some of the experiences that go with small town life. If they spend all their spare hours on amusements, they will not climb high. They also need quiet hours of reading and thought and discussion with intelligent friends.

The height of some men's ambition is to come to work in a pair of golf pants.

It is possible to love a slow thinker unless he is ahead of you in a cafeteria.

Influence: What a man thinks he has until the time comes when he has to use it.

TELEPHONES

American will do well to take time off now and then to appreciate their telephone service. It wasn't long ago that it was published that the average time for completing a telephone call between Paris and Brussels was three hours, or 180 minutes. The railroad time between the two cities is 217 minutes. Unless there has been improvement recently it is about as feasible to send a messenger from one city to the other as it is to telephone.

Although there are many great and important cities in Europe the fact remains that up to a short time ago London had telephone communication with but five of them. Paris had communication with nine and Berlin with 13.

NEWS IN ADVERTISING

Advertisers do well to take notice of the news element in announcing what they have to sell. People are always attracted by novelty. The old goods may be just as good but folks will run to see what is new. Old books are just as good and usually better than new ones but any librarian will tell you the great demand is for new books. The advertiser who realizes this and who creates for his store a reputation for always bringing in new goods is the man who will never want for trade.

NOT ALL IN THE ENVELOPE

The pay envelope falls far short of explaining why the captain goes down with his ship; why the nurse faces death with her patient, or why the coal miner risks his life in gas and under a treacherous roof. Whiting Williams knows what he is talking about when he says this. He spent months in mines and factories to learn what the workingman thinks about.

There is deep down in every human being the desire to take himself seriously and to be respected by his fellowmen. He knows that to be good at his craft means a long step in getting respect for himself. Employers will do well to remember that recognition of a human soul is the most important kind of recognition in the world.

FLATTERY

A wise Frenchman once remarked that if we did not flatter ourselves the flattery of others would not hurt us. But we do flatter ourselves. When others flatter us it confirms our sweet conviction that we are quite wonderful. Then comes the fall—and that's what hurts. Even if we don't fall we are hurt by the decreasing respect of our fellows.

The Diary of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, May 10.—I am writing this after a stroll in West street, which begins off Battery Park and skirts the city, facing the Hudson. It is one long succession of ships, piers, docks and ferries. It is the heart of the greatest port in the world.

The landsman from the hinterland is likely to think of ships solely in terms of the great liners like the Leviathan, Aquitania, Mauretania and Ile de France. To the real sailor these are just passenger ferries, moving like trolley cars on a fixed route, designed to remind the traveler, as he lolls in their marble baths, flower gardens and picture theatres, of the sea as little as possible.

It is the carrying of cargo that makes ships and shipping. Transporting the south's cotton, supplying the world's markets with American petroleum, automobiles, farm implements, shoes, motion pictures, sewing machines, typewriters and such things; distributing the Argentine wheat, and the Brazil coffee crop, marketing Australia's wool, carrying away Chile's precious nitrate, soda, spreading Britain's cotton, moving lumber from our Pacific ports, are immensely more important jobs than transferring tourists to and from Europe. The piers of the cargo ships are the place to look for what remains of the romance of the sea.

Along the waterfront they are talking about the thrilling race against time of the steamship Southern Cross and comparing it with the forced contests between British and American clipper ships, when the windjammers were contesting for markets in China. The Southern Cross, delayed by heavy seas on the first part of her run from Brazil, made the distance to New York from Trinidad under forced draught in order to deliver 50,000 bags of coffee in contract time.

At West street docks one finds a diminishing number of the "tramp steamers" which were the successors of the square-rigged sailing vessel and the inheritors of its hobo-like habits and traditions. The new type of cargo carrier operates on schedule on fixed routes. The "tramp steamer," like the sailing vessel it succeeded, knocks around the world, taking cargo as it is to be found. Seldom more than 5,000 tons in size, it goes into harbors that no other ships visit. It may be gone from its home port for a year or two, and its crew never knows from one port to another where they'll go next. It not only roams the oceans, but follows the muddy waters of the Amazon into the trackless jungles, seeks out strange ports in the Black Sea, braves pirates in Chinese rivers.

"Tramp steamers" are the only place to look for mariners who are survivors of the age of sail. There are no decks to scrub, for decks are washed only by waves. Every man takes his turn at the wheel and the lookout, while there is painting, tarring, mending rigging and repairing gear—real seamen's work. You don't find these ancient mariners aboard the liners, because the man in the liner's "focastle" is little more than a chambermaid.

Probably the most interesting section of West street is that between Chambers and Desbrosses streets, known as "the Farm" because it is the district where the ships that bring in New York's food disgorge themselves. Potatoes from New England, onions from Texas, oranges and grapefruit from Florida and California, bananas from Central America, apples from Oregon, pineapples from Hawaii, vegetables from California, Egypt and South America, eggs from California and China, pork from Ireland, Germany and Canada, wheat and beef from the Argentine, fish from everywhere. Every nation contributes.

ABOUT BUYING SHIRTS

It has always seemed to me that the world's worst salesmen are sought out and placed behind the shirt counters throughout this broad land.

It so happens that I like to wear shirts of patterns which permit me to move among people of high or low degree without their being harassed by my shirt's acoustic properties. Yet, whenever I go into a haberdashery to buy shirts I am waited on by a young man who seems to have consecrated his soul to selling me something I do not want. He shows me a lot of shirts with color schemes to combine the attractiveness of a horse blanket and a bright new drug store awning.

Haberdashers always seem to have a little vexed when I fail to enthrone over shirts suitable only for old-fashioned minstrel parade and cakewalk wear. With such a shirt on I should be haunted constantly by the fear that I might meet somebody I know.

Frequently a spry young shirt salesman gives me a pitying glance, such as one bestows upon idiots, opens up his vest, and proudly shows me that he himself is wearing one of the very patterns to which I have objected.

Once I went into an antique shop to look at a chair. The clerk was out for the moment and a colored porter kindly undertook to wait on me. The chair I had seen in the window proved to be not quite what I wanted, but the colored man was

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

THE FRAME OF THE FACE

The contour lines are really the frame lines of the face. For beauty and youth they must be firm and clear, for on these lines depend the charm of a well defined profile, the youthfulness of a cameo-cut chin and jaw. All the loveliness that exists within this outline will be either flattered or minimized through the medium of these frame lines of your face. They are as important a part of beauty as the outline in Art.

Scoolding and worrying are unpleasant and controllable traits and they disfigure the face with lines and "bumps." A bad temper and stubbornness will, in time, force your jaw into hard, dominant lines anything but feminine, and anything but lovely.

Nor are these the only things which affect the profile. Prominent physicians claim that fully nine-tenths of the jaw disfigurements we see in the world, the receding chins and the overhanging ones, the improperly shaped mouths, bulging, drooping or pointing, are to be blamed upon the improper care of the teeth, gums and jaws.

If you have a too prominent jaw, you may have passed the period in which correction may be easily and adequately made. But you can, if you understand the cause, see that your own daughter has the benefit and advantage of your mother's mistake.

A double chin is the curse of youth, and beginning at 25 a woman needs some scientific aid to keep her jaw line firm and clear cut. As a preventive measure a mild astringent jelly may be used, but if the contour line is already blurred and an unbeautiful double chin is visible in evidence, you will have to use a muscle-tightening preparation to correct the sagging tissues. It is best to apply it slightly warm and pat well into chin and jaw with brisk slapping movements, using the back of your hand, until all of the astringent has been absorbed.

Nervous twitches of mouth, nose and eyes, disfigure, through over-developing the muscles. Control your habitual expressions and lines of your face. Control your facial habits and you will probably effect a beneficial change in your profile lines. It is worth the trial, is it not?

In my next article I am going to talk about posture lines.

EAT MORE CHEESE

We are all familiar with the advertising slogan, "Eat More Bread." There are a great many who should not follow this advice. Certainly all of those who are overweight eat too much bread already. Bread is a good wholesome food, especially the whole grain breads made with milk, but it leaves an acidash, and too much of any acidash food is deleterious.

Now we would be in accord with a slogan, "Eat More Cheese," because in the last survey, made in 1920, it was shown that the total cheese consumption, including that imported, was only 3.1-2 to 4 pounds a person per year, and that is a very low figure, in comparison to the amount of meat consumed.

Sherman advises as much, and possibly more, money spent for milk and cheese than is spent for meat, fish and eggs. Do you do that?

You are most all familiar with the importance of milk. You know it has the highest grade of biologically complete protein for building and repairing tissues. You know it is very high in calcium, which is so necessary for proper functioning and for the bones and teeth, and you know it is high in minerals (except iron) and rich in vitamins, especially when the cow is on green fodder.

Now cheese is a concentrated milk, so naturally it is much higher in these things, weight for weight, than milk. As milk leaves a basic ash, so does cheese.

Remember that a preponderance of our foods must be of the base or alkaline-ash type; so we should have a larger amount of milk and milk products, fruits, vegetables and nuts, than of the breads, cereals, pastries, meats, fish and eggs, which leave the acid ash.

No one who has never peeped into an Oriole's nest can guess what he saw. A rocking gently in his hanging cradle, five Oriole youngsters, each one of them complaining at the top of his baby voice.

The little things looked as fat as butter.

And what good care their parents had taken to keep them safe from harm!

What could be the matter with the poor dears? Perhaps they were lonely. What could Peter do to cheer them up?

"Check! Check! Check!"

The sharp cry of alarm came so unexpectedly that Peter pumping back startled, almost lost his balance and tumbled from his seat on the branch. Frightened and furious, a bird was fluttering in circles about the boy's head. Mother Oriole had caught sight of the stranger peeping in at her babies and had flown to protect them.

There is no telling what she might have done to the boy if his old friend, Mr. Oriole, had not seen what was happening and hastened over to explain matters.

"Wait a minute, Mrs. Flame-Wing," called he. "Everything is all right. Two-Legs is a friend of mine. He wouldn't hurt a mosquito."

"Certainly wouldn't harm a feather of the nestlings' heads," Peter spoke quickly. "I heard the babies crying and I came over to see what it was all about."

Mother Oriole, quite satisfied that everything was all right, proudly fluttered her wings.

"One never can tell what's the trouble," she said. "The rascals are always fussing. No Oriole children are ever still for a long time. Didn't you know that name for they are not crying now at all. What you hear is just their baby talk. They whimper like that all night long. It is just a way they have."

"I should think they would keep you awake," volunteered the happy. "Peep! Peep! Peep! Chip! Chip! Don't the nestlings sound satisfied and comfortable?"

Sure enough, the little voices took on a new tone to the boy's ear.

"I guess the little dears are just too glad they are alive to keep quiet," remarked Peter.

"Over Two-Legs, that's what you are!" Mother Flame-Wing, pleased by Peter's understanding of Oriole way, patted him on the shoulder with her wing.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

TRUE RICHES—The blessing of the Lord, it maketh rich, and he addeth no sorrow with it.—Prov. 10:22.

THE SUMMER "WHITE HOUSE"

President Coolidge is getting many invitations to come to the various states to spend his summer vacation. These result not merely from personal regard for the man and the office, but from a natural desire for the advertising that comes from such a selection.

It is a part of the game of modern progress to attract visitors to one's home locality, and the state that gets the president as a summer visitor gets a big boost. A host of people will follow him, spend their money there, and the state becomes a center of public interest.

The receipt of all these invitations indicates that the states are very alert and wide awake in promoting their own interests. They are competing to see which shall be the best known, and considered most desirable for vacation or permanent residence. This alert spirit is one reason why our country goes ahead. When localities compete for superiority, they try to achieve it by merit.

BRIGHT COLORS HELP

The educational authorities of Liverpool, England, recently decorated their schoolhouses with bright colors, inside and out, on the theory that the working hours of the pupils will thereby be brightened, and better study will result.

No one can doubt that pupils will study better in a well maintained schoolhouse than they will in a shabby one. A poor looking school is not a good incentive to ambition, and pupils attending there would probably be slack about their work. But when the schoolhouse is made neat, trim, and attractive, there is a powerful suggestion to the children that their work must be done in a finished way.

WHY ARE THEY "PROMINENT" PEOPLE?

It was recently noted that 80 per cent of the men whose names appear in a list of prominent citizens of Chicago, were born in small towns. Probably the same thing might be true in many places. That fact suggests some reasons:

The people from small towns are not out of the game of modern life. These towns contain many of the brightest minds of the nation. Life in those towns gives opportunity for reading and reflection, and these people are apt to have more than average intelligence.

The people of the larger places need in their own life some of the experiences that go with small town life. If they spend all their spare hours on amusements, they will not climb high. They also need quiet hours of reading and thought and discussion with intelligent friends.

The height of some men's ambition is to come to work in a pair of golf pants.

It is possible to love a slow thinker unless he is ahead of you in a cafeteria.

TELEPHONES

American will do well to take time off now and then to appreciate their telephone service. It wasn't long ago that it was published that the average time for completing a telephone call between Paris and Brussels was three hours, or 180 minutes. The railroad time between the two cities is 217 minutes. Unless there has been improvement recently it is about as feasible to send a messenger from one city to the other as it is to telephone.

Although there are many great and important cities in Europe the fact remains that up to a short time ago London had telephone communication with but five of them. Paris had communication with nine and Berlin with 13.

NEWS IN ADVERTISING

Advertisers do well who take notice of the news element in announcing what they have to sell. People are always attracted by novelty. The old goods may be just as good but folks will run to see what is new. Old books are just as good and usually better than new ones but any librarian will tell you the great demand is for new books.

The advertiser who realizes this and who creates for his store a reputation for always bringing in new goods is the man who will never want for trade.

NOT ALL IN THE ENVELOPE

The pay envelope falls far short of explaining why the captain goes down with his ship; why the nurse faces death with her patient, or why the coal miner risks his life in gas and under a treacherous roof.

Whiting Williams knows what he is talking about when he says this. He spent months in mines and factories to learn what the workingman thinks about.

There is deep down in every human being the desire to take himself seriously and to be respected by his fellowmen. He knows that to be good at his craft means a long step in getting respect for himself.

Employers will do well to remember that recognition of a human soul is the most important kind of recognition in the world.

FLATTERY

A wise Frenchman once remarked that if we did not flatter ourselves the flattery of others would not hurt us. But we do flatter ourselves. When others flatter us it confirms our sweet conviction that we are quite wonderful. Then comes the fall—and that's what hurts. Even if we don't fall we are hurt by the decreasing respect of our fellows.

NEWS COMMENT AND VIEWS

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, May 10. — I am writing this after a stroll in West street, which begins off Battery Park and skirts the city, facing the Hudson. It is one long succession of ships, piers, docks and ferries. It is the heart of the greatest port in the world.

The landsman from the hinterland is likely to think of ships solely in terms of the great liners like the Leviathan, Aquitania, Mauretania and Ile de France. To the real sailor these are just passenger ferries, moving like trolley cars on a fixed route, designed to remind the traveler, as he looks in their marble baths, flower gardens and picture galleries, of the sea as little as possible.

It is the carrying of cargo that makes ships and shipping. Transporting the south's cotton, supplying the world's markets with American petroleum, automobiles, farm implements, shoes, motion pictures, sewing machines, typewriters and such things; distributing the Argentine wheat crop and the Brazil coffee crop, marketing Australia's wool, carrying away Chile's precious nitrate—these are the real tasks of the ships. Along the waterfront they are talking about the thrilling race against time of the steamship Southern Cross and comparing it with the forced contests between British and American clipper ships, when the windjammers were contesting for markets in China. The Southern Cross, delayed by heavy seas on the first part of her run from Brazil, made the distance to New York from Trinidad under forced draught in order to deliver 50,000 bags of coffee in contract time.

At West street docks one finds a diminishing number of the "tramp steamers" which were the successors of the square-rigged sailing vessel and the inheritors of its hobo-like habits and traditions. The new type of cargo carrier operates on schedule on fixed routes. The "tramp steamer," like the sailing vessel it succeeded, takes cargo as it is to be found. Seldom more than 5,000 tons in size, it goes into harbors that no other ships visit. It may be gone from its home port for one year or two, and its crew never knows from one port to another where they'll go next. It not only roams the oceans, but follows the muddy waters of the Amazon into the trackless jungles, seeks out strange ports in the Black Sea, braves pirates in Chinese rivers.

"Tramp steamers" are the only place to look for mariners who are survivors of the age of sail. There are no decks to scrub, for decks are washed only by waves. Every man takes his turn at the wheel and the lookout, while there is painting, tarring, mending rigging and repairing gear—real seamanly work. You don't find these ancient mariners aboard the liners, because the man in the liner's "fo'c'st'le" is little more than a chambermaid. Probably the most interesting section of West street is between Chambers and Desbrosses streets, known as "the Farm" because it is the district where the ships that bring in New York's food disgorge themselves. Potatoes from New England, onions from Texas, oranges and grapefruit from Florida and California, bananas from Central America, apples from Oregon, pineapples from Hawaii, vegetables from California, Egypt and South America, eggs from California and China, pork from Ireland, Germany and Canada, wheat and beef from the Argentine, fish from everywhere. Every nation contributes.

ABOUT BUYING SHIRTS

It has always seemed to me that the world's worst salesmen are sought out and placed behind the shirt counters throughout this broad land.

It so happens that I like to wear shirts of patterns which permit me to move among people of high or low degree without their being harassed by my shirt's acoustic properties. Yet, whenever I go into a haberdashery to buy shirts I am waited on by a young man who seems to have consecrated his soul to selling me something I do not want. He shows me a lot of shirts with color schemes to combine the attractiveness of a horse blanket and a bright new drug store awning.

A haberdasher always seems to be a little vexed when I fail to enthrall over shirts suitable only for old-fashioned minstrel parade and cakewalk wear. With such a shirt on I should be haunted constantly by the fear I might meet somebody I know.

Frequently a spry young shirt salesman gives me a pitying glance, such as one bestows upon idiots, opens up his vest, and proudly shows me that he himself is wearing one of the very patterns to which I have objected.

Once I went into an antique shop to look at a chair. The clerk was out for the moment and a colored porter kindly undertook to wait on me. The chair I had seen in the window proved to be not quite what I wanted, but the colored man was

THE FRAME OF THE FACE

The contour lines are really the frame lines of the face. For beauty and youth they must be firm and clear, for on these lines depend the charm of a well defined profile, the youthfulness of a chin and jaw. All the loveliness that exists within this outline will be either flattered or minimized through the medium of these frame lines of your face. They are as important a part of beauty as the outline in Art.

Scooping and worrying are unpleasant and controllable traits and they disfigure the brow with lines and "bumps." A bad temper and stubbornness will, in time, force your jaw into hard, dominant lines anything but feminine, and anything but lovely.

Now are these the only things which affect the profile. Prominent physicians claim that fully nine-tenths of the jaw disfigurements we see in the world, the receding chins and the over-dominant ones, the improperly shaped mouths, bulging, drooping or pointing, are to be blamed upon the improper care of the teeth, gums and jaws.

If you have a too prominent jaw, you may have passed the period in which correction may be easily and adequately made. But you can, if you understand the cause, see that your own daughter has the benefit and advantage of your mother's mistake.

A double chin is the curse of youth, and beginning at 25 a woman needs some scientific aid to keep her jaw line firm and clear cut. As a preventive measure a mild astringent jelly may be used, but if the contour line is already blurred and an unbeautiful double chin is visible in evidence, you will have to resort to muscle-tightening preparation to correct the sagging tissues. It is best to apply it slightly warm and pat well into chin and jaw with brisk slapping movements, using the back of your hand, until all of the astringent has been absorbed.

Nervous twitchings of mouth, nose and eyes, disfigure, through over-developing the muscles. Control your habitual expressions and you control the permanent lines of your face. Control your facial habits and you will probably effect a beneficial change in your profile lines. It is worth the trial, is it not?

statue to the discoverer of the famous Camembert cheese.

Cheese is practically all digested, and for this reason it has a reputation for being constipating, but it is not constipating in itself. The only precaution to take when eating cheese is to be sure to take more of the coarse foods that do contain residue.

Cheese is probably the first form in which milk was preserved for future use, on any large scale, and it has been known since the beginning of history. Aristotle and other philosophers who lived many centuries before Christ, mention it. It evidently was considered of great value in Old Testament times, for David was given ten cheeses by his father to take to his captain, just before he threw with Goliath. And cheese was included in the rations of wheat, barley, beans, lentils, honey and butter that were sent to David and the people who were "hungry, weary and thirsty, in the wilderness" before one of the battles (2 Sam. 17-29).

How many types of cheese do you think there are?....Guess again....There are over 350 varieties. Most of the cheeses are made of cow's milk, but goat's, sheep's, buffalo's, llama's, zebra's and reindeer's milk are used in different countries. Genuine Roquefort is made of sheep's milk, but there is a satisfactory form now made from cow's milk.

In the ripening process of cheese, many different types of bacteria are employed, the most important being different members of the lactic acid group. But these germs are included in the immense family of beneficial germs, and they not only help ripen and give flavor to the cheese, but they help combat the putrefying bacteria of the intestines.

Eat more cheese!

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, May 10. — Douglas H. McArthur can remember away back into ancient history, when the senate "oil probe" started.

McArthur was secretary. In those days, to the late Senator Edwin P. Ladd of North Dakota. Ladd was a member of the public lands committee, which has done all the oil investigating—not the committee's chairman—just a mere member.

"We thought that inquiry might take, at the outside, a week or two," recalls the veteran. "Ha, ha! It's been going on for six years instead, and for all I can see, we're only at the beginning of it."

Senator Reed Smoot was chairman of the investigators at the outset. Never much of a muckraker, according to McArthur's account, the Utah statesman soon got enough of the job, found other committee work to occupy his mind, and was succeeded by Senator Irwin L. Lenroot of Wisconsin.

Lenroot's term ran out and he wasn't re-elected. Next, in order of seniority, Senator Ladd became chairman. His first real look-in. As Ladd's secretary, he automatically took over the duties of clerk to the investigating committee.

All this time Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, had been championing to make it a hum-dinger of an inquiry, but Smoot and Lenroot hadn't been enthusiastic. They slapped the ex-tinguisher on Walsh as often as he threatened to stir up anything genuinely unpleasant.

Ladd let him have things all his own way—even helped him. McArthur told the story the other day of the fashion in which William H. Hays, President Harding's campaign manager, tried to put the husher on Ladd, but Ladd wouldn't stand for it.

However, Ladd finally died, and Senator Robert N. Stanford, of Oregon, rose to the committee chairmanship.

That cost McArthur his ring-side seat for awhile, but presently Stanford's senatorial term expired, like Lenroot's, and again like Lenroot, he wasn't re-elected, either.

Yet in the vacancy caused by his retirement from his post at the head of the oil inquisitorial body stepped Senator Gerald P. Nye, another North Dakotan. It was a rapid ascent from the bottom to the top of an important senate committee, but the turnover in chairmen had been pretty swift in this instance.

It so happens that McArthur is Nye's secretary, as he was Ladd's, so back we find him, as chief clerk for the oil investigators.

Yet Ladd had a perfectly free hand, under both Ladd and Nye. Indeed, Nye has been almost too rambunctious to suit Walsh himself.

It was all right by Walsh, so long as the probe dug into none but oil duffers within the limits of Republican administrations, but he's been showing signs of fretfulness since Nye's activities have threatened to extend as deeply into the past as the last Democratic regime.

"We've been six years opening up Elk Hills and Teapot Dome," observes McArthur.

"Now for Salt Creek."

"Who knows how long that'll take? Or what's due to follow it?"

Girl No. 2 loves a boy who always seems perfectly friendly, but never asks her for dates. Do you think she should ask him to call, or how shall she get better acquainted with him? Please, Mrs. Lee, tell us how to win their love."

The first young man must be a bit temperamental. I shouldn't think he would be a very satisfactory friend. Unless, the second asks to call I think No. 2 would be unwise to ask him. Sorry girls, but I think you had better interest yourselves in other young men.

ARGENTINE GOLFER OFFERS SENSATION AT BRITISH MEETING

Leads Second Round With Crack Play On Thursday

SANDWICH, May 10. — Joe Jurado, overnight sensation of the British open golf championship, again supplied the pyrotechnics today when he shot a sizzling round of 38-37-71 to take the lead in the second round with a two-day aggregate of 145. Jurado's incoming 33, the lowest nine-hole total of the tournament to date, was even more sensational than the Argentine's 69 of Tuesday, which netted him the qualifying medal.

Jose's 36-hole total was nine strokes under that of Jim Barnes, former American and British champion, who retrieved a horrible first round with a clinching 73 today to bring his aggregate to 154. Stewart Burns, champion of Scotland, had 74 for a total of 150. Barage, with a fierce scowl on his rather dour face, was fighting hard to keep in the tournament.

Jurado's card follows:
Out 4-4-5-5-3-4-4-38
In 4-4-4-4-3-2-4-33

Three under 4's for the last nine holes in the string! Five strokes under par! His golf.

Although his incoming score was higher by a stroke, Barnes played sounder golf on this nine. He managed to keep his ball straight for the most part and required little in the way of sensational recoveries.

His card:
Out 5-5-3-4-5-3-2-36
In 4-5-4-4-4-3-4-37-73

Hagen, began the second round with something of a rush, going to the turn in 36. Tommy Armour, American champion whose game collapsed yesterday, added a 42 on the outgoing nine to his 81 of yesterday.

Their nine hole cards follow:
Hagen 5-4-3-5-3-4-4-36
Armour 4-5-3-5-3-4-4-36

George Duncan, Britain's beau ideal, shot a 38-39-77 for a two-day total of 152.

Ted Ray, veteran Britisher had a 78 for a total of 155; Jean Gassiat, of France, a 77 for a total of 153 and Fred Taggart a 74 for an aggregate of 150, tying Stewart Burns at that figure.

Percy Allis added a 37-39-76 to yesterday's 75 to aggregate 151 while Douglas Grant, American amateur residing in London, shot an 81 for a total of 161. Another amateur, Major Hezlett did better, getting a 76 for a total of 155. A. E. Whiting, pro at the course, had a 76 for a total of 154.

Hagen's nemesis, Archie Compson had gone round the course, meanwhile in two 37's for a 74 and an aggregate of 149, four strokes to the rear of the flying Jurado. Archie really should have had a 72 as he putted beautifully for the first six holes and, with any kind of luck, would have one-putted a lot of greens.

His card:
Out 4-4-4-4-3-6-3-37
In 5-3-4-4-4-3-5-37-74

Jack Smith, his compatriot, came in a few minutes later with a 37-40-77 for a total of 155.

The University of Dayton Flyers pounded out a 27 to 7 victory over Antioch College in a wild baseball game at the Yellow Springs diamond Wednesday afternoon, the contest lasting two hours and fifty minutes.

The Flyers connected for twenty-six hits, including five home runs, three triples and two doubles. In only one inning, the sixth, did Antioch prevent the Flyers from scoring.

Dayton chased six runs across the plate in the ninth, five in the first, four in the second and eighth, three in both the fourth and fifth and one each in the third and seventh.

"Specs" McLean pitched for Antioch. Bud Blumenthal, Chicago sophomore, started on the mound for Dayton and got by fairly well except for the second inning when Antioch bunched four hits and two walks to score four runs. Sharpened repaid him in the fifth. Antioch tallied two more runs in the sixth and one in the eighth, the last being a circuit drive by Mead.

CEDARVILLE LOSES TO WILMINGTON IN FREE HITTING GAME

Unable to hold a five-run lead, Cedarville College's baseball team lost its fifth game of the season when Wilmington College hammered out a 13 to 10 victory by rallying in the closing innings Wednesday afternoon on the Cedarville diamond.

The Quaker nine outthit the "Yellow Jackets" thirteen to eleven. Each team contributed four errors. Cedarville pitched a fair game for Cedarville but was unsteady with runners on base. Wilmington used three pitchers. Carey, starting hurler, retired under fire in the second stanza. Coombs took up the burden and lasted until the ninth when he was removed in favor of Ansted.

Wilmington tallied five runs in the sixth inning on two walks, two errors, two hits and a sacrifice. Cedarville unhooked a rally in the last of the ninth which produced two runs. With the bases filled, Tanner, who had previously made three hits, knocked a liner down the left field line that was foul by inches. It would have won the game if it had been fair. The batter then struck out.

Cedarville's next game is with the University of Dayton Flyers but the date is still indefinite.

Score by innings:
Wilmington: 1 0 1 0 1 5 2 2 1-13 13 4
Cedarville: 2 3 1 2 0 0 0 0 2-10 11 4

Batteries: Cedarville—Adams and Turner; Wilmington—Carey, Coombs, Ansted and Kreighbaum.

SIX COMPANIES BID ON FIRE EQUIPMENT

Bids for furnishing the Xenia Fire Department with a 750-gallon pumper fire truck were opened by City Manager S. O. Hale Thursday noon.

Six companies submitted estimates. The bids were tabulated by Manager Hale Thursday afternoon and are scheduled to be considered by City Commission at its regular meeting Thursday night.

On a previous occasion the commission rejected all bids received for a fire truck with an auxiliary pumper because the estimates were considered excessive.

TWO COMMISSION MEMBERS IN RACE

Announcement of his candidacy for re-election as county commissioner, subject to the Republican primary election in August, is being made by J. Harvey Lackey.

Commissioner Lackey is serving his first term of four years. Lackey and A. E. Beam, who is also a candidate for re-election as county commissioner, are the first county office holders to enter the race for another term. Term of the third commissioner, Herman Eavey, does not expire this year.

ARGENTINE GOLFER 'OFFERS SENSATION AT BRITISH MEETING

Leads Second Round
With Crack Play On Thursday

SANDWICH, May 10. — Joe Jurado, overnight sensation of the British open golf championship, again supplied the pyrotechnics today when he shot a scintillating round of 33-37-71 to take the lead in the second round with a two-day aggregate of 145. Jurado's incoming 33, the lowest nine-hole total of the tournament to date, was even more sensational than the Argentine's 69 of Tuesday, which netted him the qualifying medal.

Joe's 36-hole total was nine strokes under that of Jim Barnes, former American and British champion, who retrieved a horrible first round with a clinching 73 today to bring his aggregate to 154. Stewart Burns, champion of Scotland, had 74 for a total of 150. Barnes, with a fierce scowl on his rather dour face, was fighting hard to keep in the tournament.

Before Baby Comes

"Mother's Friend" is a comfort to expectant mothers. Externally applied, it relieves prenatal distress by relaxing tight tissues and muscles. And it is so soothing. Its daily use makes the skin soft and pliable.

Three generations of mothers have praised "Mother's Friend." "I think it is worth its weight in gold," writes Mrs. Leah Mabe, Lawsonville, N. C. "My baby was born without hardly any pain and it was all due to Mother's Friend."

Start using "Mother's Friend" tonight! It is sold by all drug stores. Write for free booklet on "Things to Know Before Baby Comes" (sent in plain envelope).

CEDARVILLE LOSES TO WILMINGTON IN FREE HITTING GAME

Unable to hold a five-run lead, Cedarville College's baseball team lost its fifth game of the season when Wilmington College hammered out a 13 to 10 victory by rally in the closing innings Wednesday afternoon on the Cedarville diamond.

The Quaker nine outthrew the "Yellow Jackets" thirteen to eleven. Each team contributed four errors. Cedarville pitched a fair game for Cedarville but was unsteady with runners on base. Wilmington used three pitchers. Carey, starting hurler, retired under fire in the second stanza. Coombs took up the burden and lasted until the ninth when he was removed in favor of Ansted.

Wilmington tallied five runs in the sixth inning on two walks, two errors, two hits and a sacrifice. Cedarville uncorked a rally in the last of the ninth which produced two runs. With the bases filled, Tanner, who had previously made three hits, knocked a liner down the left field line that was foul by inches. It would have won the game if it had been fair. The batter then struck out.

Cedarville's next game is with the University of Dayton Flyers but the date is still indefinite.

Score by innings:

Wilmington: R. H. E.
1 0 1 0 1 5 2 2 1—13 13 4
Cedarville: R. H. E.
2 3 1 2 0 0 0 0 2—10 11 4

Batteries: Cedarville—Adair and Turner; Wilmington—Carey, Coombs, Ansted and Krelbaum.

SIX COMPANIES BID ON FIRE EQUIPMENT

Bids for furnishing the Xenia Fire Department with a 750-gallon pumper fire truck were opened by City Manager S. O. Hale Thursday noon.

Six companies submitted estimates. The bids were tabulated by Manager Hale Thursday afternoon and are scheduled to be considered by City Commission at its regular meeting Thursday night.

On a previous occasion the commission rejected all bids received for a fire truck with an auxiliary pumper because the estimates were considered excessive.

TWO COMMISSION MEMBERS IN RACE

Announcement of his candidacy for re-election as county commissioner, subject to the Republican primary election in August, is being made by J. Harve Lackey.

Commissioner Lackey is serving his first term of four years. Lackey and A. E. Beam, who is also a candidate for re-election as county commissioner, are the first county office holders to enter the race for another term. Term of the third commissioner, Herman Eavey, does not expire this year.

CHAUTAUQUA DATES
WILL BE JULY 13-19
COMMITTEE STATES

Dates for the 1928 Redpath Chautauqua this summer will be July 13 to 19, inclusive, according to an announcement by the local Chautauqua committee.

The week's entertainment will open Thursday July 13 and the local committee expects the first advance man about June 13.

Plans are being formulated for an unusual campaign to put this year's entertainment over in great shape.

Gilbert's Romany Revelers, remembered from last season as one of the most popular numbers offered at chautauqua, will be on the Redpath program again this season in an entirely different type of entertainment.

Other musical features of the new program are the Shumate Brothers Quartet, emphasizing saxophone and brass ensembles; an orchestral group organized and coached by Harold Lewis of New York City, and Solis' Marimba.

Don't Make a Toy
Out of Baby
-Babies Have Nerves-

By RUTH BRITAIN

Much of the nervousness in older children can be traced to the overstimulation during infancy, caused by regarding baby as a sort of animated toy for the amusement of parents, relatives and friends.

Baby may be played with, but not for more than a quarter of an hour to an hour daily. Beyond that, being handled, tickled, caused to laugh or even scream, will sometimes result in vomiting, and invariably causes irritability, crying or sleeplessness.

Pretentious, crying and sleeplessness from this cause can easily be avoided by treating baby with more consideration, but when you just can't see what is making baby restless or upset, better give him a few drops of pure, harmless Castoria.

It's amazing to see how quickly it calms baby's nerves and soothes him to sleep, yet it contains no drugs or opiates. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper. Leading physicians prescribe it for colic, cholera, diarrhea, constipation, gas on stomach and bowels, feverishness, loss of sleep and all other "upsets" of babyhood. Over 25 million bottles used a year shows its overwhelming popularity.

With each bottle of Castoria, you get a book on Motherhood, worth its weight in gold. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package so you'll get genuine Castoria. There are many imitations.

—Adv.

Band of Central America.

Two well-contrasted plays are to be offered on chautauqua's second and fifth nights. "Sun-Up," a drama of the mountain district of the south, and "Tommy," a three-act comedy that recently completed long runs in both New York and Chicago, will be among the most popular plays ever witnessed by chautauquans.

"Private" (Harold R.) Peat, one of the greatest heroes of the World War, will offer his latest lecture, "A Long Way to Tipperary." Frederick M. S. ... prominently identified with the Press Congress of the World, will speak on the rather startling subject, "Up in Arms, With Empty Hands." Smith Demmon will offer his lecture-demonstration on the potter's art, fashioning a variety of vessels on an old-fashioned potter's wheel, and exhibiting chinaware from all parts of the world. Frank H. Hollmann, editor of the American Pigeon Journal will exhibit a wonderful array of pigeons, many of which are trained to perform acrobatics that are surprisingly cunning.

William Rainey Bennett, "The Man Who Can," is to return to the circuit after ten years absence, and will appear as the opening night speaker.

The big event of the junior town this year will be its own minstrels with local boys and girls presenting specialties with make-up and costumes.

New tents are being built and will be available for all cities on the Redpath circuit this summer.

PENNSY OFFICIALS TO HAVE INCREASED
JURISDICTION NOW

Xenia railroad officials of the road are interested in the announcement that the Cincinnati division of the Pennsylvania Railroad has absorbed the territory formerly comprising the Richmond division, except for the Richmond, Ind., terminal, which is under the supervision of the Columbus division.

The consolidation means that Xenia officials of the Cincinnati division will have increased territory under their jurisdiction.

R. C. Barnard, general agent and superintendent at Cincinnati, now has control of the line from Cincinnati to Anoka. A through connection with the Ft. Wayne main line will be brought about when the branch north from Richmond to Adams on the Ft. Wayne division is turned over to the Cincinnati division.

J. A. Appleton, Columbus superintendent, operates the three-mile stretch through Richmond, giving that office jurisdiction over the through line to Indianapolis.

It is also announced that the Zanesville branch, formerly a part of the Cincinnati division, has been placed in the Panhandle division of the central region.

The old Richmond division was originally a part of the C. and R. R. built between Hamilton and Rendcomb Junction in 1887-88 and of the C. R. and C. R. R. operating between Richmond, Ind., and Hamilton, and purchased from the C. H. and D. R. R. These two lines were combined with the line between Richmond and Logansport, Ind.

It is estimated that officials of the Cincinnati division will now be responsible for more than 700 miles of railroad.

THOMAS OPERA IS
GIVEN HIGH PRAISE

"La Traviata," Verdi opera, presented by the students of the Ralph Thomas School of Opera, Dayton, was received with acclaim by Dayton music critics, Wednesday night. Mr. Thomas is a former Xenian.

"The performance was amazingly interesting," Merle Eberle, Dayton critic said of the opera. "How much talent and unexpressed talent there must be in every community awaiting vision and of the power of leadership. In this instance, the honor falls to Mr. Thomas who returned to Dayton three years ago from France and Italy where he had studied opera for a long period of time.

"The singing was pleasing and full of spirit. Takers of roles were well selected for their parts.

Jane Buriff sang the leading role and won high favor. Other singers were Chester Young, Martha Dwyer, Erna Beatty, Walter Kirby, Venner Musselman, Melvin Smith, Chester Boren and Leslie McLean.

The World And All

BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

IN NEW YORK

Interesting visitors, as I said before, make life worth living. Many things make life worth living. Life in solitude, where there are no interesting visitors, can be interesting to one who has an inner light. Somehow, I need to meet interesting people. And somehow, the world seems fortunately supplied with a good many such people.

George Russell, known everywhere as A. E., was a visitor a few days ago. He is a man of whom I have heard and read all my life, and I have never heard an ill word of him. But that is a negative statement, and is far from the whole truth. Everyone who meets A. E. loves him. I think it is because he is a poet and a philosopher.

I talked with him only a short time, but I sensed that marvelous personality of poet and philosopher. A poet is in love with life. A philosopher, does not worry nor harbor anger, hatred, resentment. A philosopher has a sense of proportion. In an Irish philosopher the sense of proportion flowers in a sense of humor. A. E. is an Irish poet and philosopher.

Everybody who meets A. E. speaks of his charming personality. Now, it is not unusual to hear about a woman with a charming personality. But I believe something else is meant when you speak of charming personality in a man. A. E. has a democratic geniality and gentle friendliness. You think of him as one who could not do an unkind act.

He talked to me about pirates. He knew that pirates are my hobby, and that I write pirate stories. So, instead of talking about his hobbies, he talked about mine. He told me of Jack Yeats, a dear friend of his, who has written much rollicking verse about pirates and has drawn and painted many dashing pictures of pirates. When I told him that I have some of those verses and pictures on old broadsides at home, he was delighted. He delights in simple things, though he is a philosopher. Or perhaps because he is a philosopher.

CHURCH ANNOUNCES
SPECIAL SUNDAYS

The Presbyterian Church, the Rev. William H. Tilford, minister, announces special programs for the next four Sundays. Next Sunday, May 13, Mother's Day programs will be given in Sunday School and church. Sunday, May 20, a new feature will be introduced, "Appreciation Sunday," when everybody in the congregation is supposed to say "Thank you" to everyone who has helped in the church work during the year or years.

"Many times folks go un-thanked and therefore think they are unappreciated. This day is supposed to overcome this fault of church activities," says the pastor.

Special note paper and envelopes will be provided for the "Thank You." At this service, the pastor will outline some of the issues at the General Assembly which he will attend as commissioner, at Tulsa, Okla., leaving Xenia, May 21.

On May 27, the choir of the church will give a request program. Members of the church have indicated certain numbers that they would have the choir repeat and, anthems, solos and organ numbers will be given, occupying the entire morning worship hour beginning at 10:30 a. m.

Sunday June 3 the Rev. Mr. Tilford will report on the General Assembly. Personalities will be described and achievements of the

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

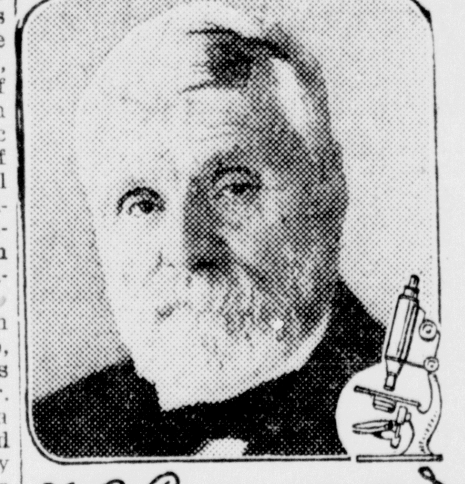

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles have been used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

Chassis leader of the day supreme in Beauty too

The New Hudson's distinction in vogue is adding thousands of beauty lovers to the hosts who want its supremely brilliant performance. And all are delighted to find, with all its other economies, a gasoline saving never attained by a car of its weight and size. Any new Hudson owner will be proud to tell you all about this new advantage.

The consistency of Hudson leadership is but the performance of its first principle, resolution and tradition—to always lead in value. Thus it was the first car at moderate price to give truly great performance, smoothness and reliability—the industry's standard today.

Thus it was the first in the development of American closed cars, and such smart turnouts as the Town Car and Speedster. The Coach—a Hudson invention—turned the entire industry to closed cars.

The Super-Six principle and its companion invention that turns waste heat to power, is the most efficient combination in development and transmission of power, within our knowledge.

CHAUTAUQUA DATES WILL BE JULY 13-19 COMMITTEE STATES

Dates for the 1928 Redpath Chautauqua this summer will be July 13 to 19, inclusive, according to an announcement by the local Chautauqua committee.

The week's entertainment will open Thursday July 13 and the local committee expects the first advance man about June 13.

Plans are being formulated for an unusual campaign to put this year's entertainment over in great shape.

Gilbert's Romany Revelers, remembered from last season as one of the most popular numbers offered at Chautauqua, will be on the Redpath program again this season in an entirely different type of entertainment.

Other musical features of the new program are the Shumate Brothers Quartet, emphasizing saxophone and brass ensembles; an orchestral group organized and coached by Harold Lewis of New York City, and Solis' Marimba.

Don't Make a Toy Out of Baby -Babies Have Nerves-

By RUTH BRITAIN

Much of the nervousness in older children can be traced to the overstimulation during infancy, caused by regarding baby as a sort of animated toy for the amusement of parents, relatives and friends.

Baby may be played with, but not for more than a quarter of an hour to an hour daily. Beyond that, being handled, tickled, caused to laugh or even scream, will sometimes result in vomiting, and invariably causes irritability, crying or sleeplessness.

Pretentious, crying and sleeplessness from this cause can easily be avoided by treating baby with more consideration, but when you just can't see what is making baby restless or upset, better give him a few drops of pure, harmless Castoria.

It is amazing to see how quickly it calms baby's nerves and soothes him to sleep; yet it contains no drugs or opiates. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper. Leading physicians prescribe it for colic, cholera, diarrhea, constipation, gas on stomach and bowels, feverishness, loss of sleep and all other "upsets" of babyhood. Over 25 million bottles used a year shows its overwhelming popularity.

With each bottle of Castoria, you get a book on Motherhood, worth its weight in gold. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package so you'll get genuine Castoria. There are many imitations.

Band of Central America. Two well-contrasted plays are to be offered on Chautauqua's second and fifth nights, "Sun-Up," a drama of the mountain district of the south, and "Tommy," a three-act comedy that recently completed long runs in both New York and Chicago, will be among the most popular plays ever witnessed by Chautauquans.

"Private" (Harold R.) Peat, one of the greatest heroes of the World War, will offer his latest lecture, "A Long Way to Tipperary." Fredrick M. S. Press, Congress of the World, will speak on the rather startling subject, "Up in Arms, With Empty Hands." Smith Deming will offer his lecture-demonstration on the potter's art, fashioning a variety of vessels on an old-fashioned potter's wheel, and exhibiting china-ware from all parts of the world. Frank H. Hollmann, editor of the American Pigeon Journal will exhibit a wonderful array of pigeons, many of which are trained to perform acrobatics that are surprisingly cunning.

William Rainey Bennett, "The Man Who Can," is to return to the circuit after ten years absence, and will appear as the opening night speaker.

The big event of the junior town this year will be its own minstrel with local boys and girls presenting specialties with make-up and costumes.

New tents are being built and will be available for all cities on the Redpath circuit this summer.

Xenia railroad officials of the road are interested in the announcement that the Cincinnati division of the Pennsylvania Railroad has absorbed the territory formerly comprising the Richmond division, except for the Richmond, Ind. terminal, which is under the supervision of the Columbus division.

The consolidation means that Xenia officials of the Cincinnati division will have increased territory under their jurisdiction.

R. C. Barnard, general agent and superintendent at Cincinnati, now has control of the line from Cincinnati to Anoka. A through connection with the Ft. Wayne main line will be brought about when the branch north from Richmond to Adams on the Ft. Wayne division is turned over to the Cincinnati division.

J. A. Appleton, Columbus superintendent, operates the three-mile stretch through Richmond, giving that office jurisdiction over the through line to Indianapolis.

It is also announced that the Zanesville branch, formerly a part of the Cincinnati division, has been placed in the Panhandle division of the central region.

The old Richmond division was originally a part of the C. and R. R. built between Hamilton and Rendcomb Junction in 1887-88 and of the C. and R. R., operating between Richmond, Ind., and Hamilton, and purchased from the C. I. and D. R. R. These two lines were combined with the line between Richmond and Logansport, Ind.

It is estimated that officials of the Cincinnati division will now be responsible for more than 700 miles of railroad.

THOMAS OPERA IS
GIVEN HIGH PRAISE

"La Traviata," Verdi opera, presented by the students of the Ralph Thomas School of Opera, Dayton, was received with acclaim by Dayton music critics. Wednesday night, Mr. Thomas is a former Xenian.

"The performance was amazingly interesting," Merle Eberle, Dayton critic said of the opera. "How much latent and unexpressed talent there must be in every community awaiting some one who is possessed of vision and of the power of leadership. In this instance, the honor falls to Mr. Thomas who returned to Dayton three years ago from France and Italy where he had studied opera for a long period of time."

"The singing was pleasing and full of spirit. Takers of roles were well selected for their parts. June Burff sang the leading role and won high favor. Other singers were Chester Young, Martha Dwyer, Erma Beatty, Walter Kirby, Venner Musselman, Melvin Smith, Chester Boren and Leslie McLean.

The World And All

BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

IN NEW YORK

Interesting visitors, as I said before, make life worth living. Many things make life worth living. Life in solitude, where there are no interesting visitors, can be interesting to one who has an inner light. Somehow, I need to meet interesting people. And somehow, the world seems fortunately supplied with a good many such people.

George Russell, known everywhere as A. E., was a visitor a few days ago. He is a man of whom I have heard and read all my life, and I have never heard an ill word of him. But that is a negative statement, and is far from the whole truth. Everyone who meets A. E. loves him. I think it is because he is a poet and a philosopher.

I talked with him only a short time, but I sensed that marvelous personality of poet and philosopher. A poet is in love with life. A philosopher, does not worry nor harbor anger, hatred, resentment. A philosopher has a sense of proportion. In an Irish philosopher the sense of proportion flowers in a sense of humor. A. E. is an Irish poet and philosopher.

Everybody who meets A. E. speaks of his charming personality. Now, it is not unusual to hear about a woman with a charming personality. But I believe something else is meant when you speak of charming personality in a man. A. E. has a democratic geniality and gentle friendliness. You think of him as one who could not do an unkind act.

He talked to me about pirates. He knew that pirates are my hobby, and that I write pirate stories. So, instead of talking about his hobbies, he talked about mine. He told me of Jack Yeats, a dear friend of his, who has written much rollicking verse about pirates, and has drawn and painted many dashing pictures of pirates. When I told him that I have some of those verses and pictures on old broadsides at home, he was delighted. He delights in simple things, though he is a philosopher. Or perhaps because he is a philosopher.

Frazier Hunt, writer, was a call.

Feared Lost in Lake

AMPLE REFRESHMENTS

AMSTERDAM, May 10.—Visitors Olympic games in Amsterdam this year will not want for liquid refreshments. Ordinarily Amsterdam cafes and bars close at 1 a. m. but the town council, perhaps catering to visitors from "dry" countries, has decreed that they may remain open an hour later while the games are in progress.

CHURCH ANNOUNCES SPECIAL SUNDAYS

The Presbyterian Church, the Rev. William H. Tilford, minister, announces special programs for the next four Sundays. Next Sunday, May 13, Mother's Day programs will be given in Sunday School and church. Sunday, May 20, a new feature will be introduced, "Appreciation Sunday," when everybody in the congregation is supposed to say "Thank you" to everyone who has helped in the church work during the year or years.

"Many times folks go un-thanked and therefore think they are unappreciated. This day is supposed to overcome this fault of church activities," says the pastor.

Special note paper and envelopes will be provided for the "Thank You." At this service, the pastor will outline some of the issues at the General Assembly which he will attend as commissioner, at Tulsa, Okla., leaving Xenia, May 21.

On May 27, the choir of the church will give a request program. Members of the church have indicated certain numbers that they would have the choir repeat and on this day these special numbers, anthems, solos and organ numbers will be given, occupying the entire morning worship hour beginning at 10:30 a. m.

Sunday June 3 the Rev. Mr. Tilford will report on the General Assembly. Personalities will be described and achievements of the Assembly set forth. The public is invited to any and all of these meetings.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physical and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of people are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

Dr. J. B. Caldwell, M.D.
AT AGE 83

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

It's amazing the way all-mash- fed chicks grow

THE way baby chicks thrive and grow when fed on UBICO ALL-MASH Starting and Growing Ration is little short of miraculous.
No weak, droopy, listless chicks with overgrown wing and tail feathers—or with no feathers at all—when UBICO ALL-MASH is fed regularly.

This ration will promote a rapid,
well-balanced growth of body and feathers. It will make firm flesh and strong bone—no weak legs with UBICO-fed chicks. That's because it is a complete ration and every ingredient is chosen with the greatest care and has been thoroughly tested. Sound, wholesome grains supplemented with choice meat scraps, dried buttermilk, cod-liver oil, bone meal, salt and charcoal make UBICO ALL-MASH Starting and Growing Ration practically perfect.

The advantages of all-mash feeding are decidedly worth while.
Self-feeders prevent the usual crowding that accompanies litter-feeding. The ration is always clean.
By no chance can the chicks pick up mouldy, decayed grains that may carry disease and parasites. Again, all-mash feeding is convenient. It is a time and labor saver. It does away with all guesswork, as UBICO
ALL-MASH Starting and Growing
Ration provides all the nutrients needed by the growing pullets and cockerels.

Get the facts—

We will be glad to tell you more about the UBICO ALL-MASH System

We also sell the entire line of UBICO World Record Feeds for and poultry.

HIRE PHONE GIRLS TO HALT PROFANITY

an effort to check profanity over the telephone, the government has decided to install girl operators in the exchange at Bagdad. The telephone system through Turkey is antiquated and difficult to use, but that at Bagdad is said to be the worst. Patrons of the telephone system usually become so angry at their inability to get a number that they give vent to their feelings in profanity directed against the telephone and the operators. The "cen-

It's amazing the way all-mash-fed chicks grow

THE way baby chicks thrive and grow when fed on UBICO ALL-MASH Starting and Growing Ration is little short of miraculous. No weak, droopy, listless chicks with overgrown wing and tail feathers—or with no feathers at all—when UBICO ALL-MASH is fed regularly.

This ration will promote a rapid, well-balanced growth of body and feathers. It will make firm flesh and strong bone—no weak legs with UBICO-fed chicks. That's because it is a complete ration and every ingredient is chosen with the greatest care and has been thor- oughly tested. Sound, wholesome grains supplemented with choice meat scraps, dried buttermilk, cod- liver oil, bone meal, salt and char- coal make UBICO ALL-MASH Start- ing and Growing Ration practically perfect.

The advantages of all-mash feed- ing are decidedly worth while. Self-feeders prevent the usual crowding that accompanies litter- feeding. The ration is always clean. By no chance can the chicks pick up mouldy, decayed grains that may carry disease and parasites. Again, all-mash feeding is convenient. It is a time and labor saver. It does away with all guesswork, as UBICO ALL-MASH Starting and Growing Ration provides all the nutrients needed by the growing pullets and cockerels.

Get the facts—

We will be glad to tell you more about the UBICO ALL-MASH System and supply descriptive circulars. We also sell the entire line of UBICO World Record Feeds for dairy cattle, horses, pigs and hogs and poultry.

HIRE PHONE GIRLS TO HALT PROFANITY

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 10.—In an effort to check profanity over the telephone, the government has decided to install girl operators in the exchange at Bagdad. The tele- phone system through Turkey is antiquated and difficult to use, but that at Bagdad is said to be the worst. Patrons of the telephone system usually become so angry at their inability to get a number that they give vent to their feelings in profanity directed against the tele- phone and the operators. Mrs. McKay spent her entire life in Clinton County. She was born near Harveysburg, and in her early life was a teacher in the public schools. She was the daughter of Clark and Martha Ashby Nickerson and was the last of a family of five children: James, Joshua, David and Mrs. Evan Hadley.

She was married December 30, 1885 to Robert P. McKay and they spent many years in the home they established in the New Burlington community. Her husband died April 10, 1914.

Four children were born to the union: Mrs. Charles Skimming, Mrs. E. Everett Terrell, Weldon N. and Mrs. Harley H. Smith.

Mrs. McKay and her husband united with the Methodist Episcopal Church at New Burlington in their early married life. She was devoted to her church and was an earnest worker in all its departments.

LAW ENFORCEMENT LAGS IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, O., May 10.—Federal liquor law enforcement, according to United States officers, is in a slump in Cleveland while liquor trade is booming due to the alleged demoralization of the federal dry forces. Last year, approximately eighty violators were tried nearly every month. Last March only eleven liquor violators were apprehended and last April six persons were accused of boot-legging.

"Federal dry forces are demoralized," John B. Osmon, assistant United States district attorney in charge of prosecution of prohibition law violation declared. "Awaiting the outcome of civil service examinations agents are wondering whether they are to be retained or dismissed. This has brought about the present situation."

Why suffer with Rheumatism?

You know it cannot be rubbed away

ARE you one of those unfortunate who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered with rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried almost everything. Went to Hot Springs, then finally decided to try S.S.S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S.S.S. is the best."—Earl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

Editor The Gazette:

THE FOUNDER OF MOTHER'S DAY

As a tribute to her mother, Miss Anna Jarvis, a native of West Virginia, but now of Philadelphia, resolved to set aside a day in May of each year as a memorial to her. On that day she selected a white flower and wore it—fitting emblem, she thought, of the love and devotion between mother and child.

When her friends learned about it she told them she was going to observe the same day each year. They too became interested and asked her to arrange a service in which their entire community might have a part. While planning this memorial meeting to her own mother, the thought came to her: "Why not make it a national celebration in commemoration of the debt owed to mothers—a tribute of deference and respect not only to absent mothers but to all mothers and the home?" Thus out of Miss Jarvis' own personal sorrow came the idea of Mother's Day.

The first observance was in Philadelphia. The day soon became recognized by other cities in the state of Pennsylvania and elsewhere.

In 1914 Miss Jarvis called on a member of the house of representatives and requested him to introduce a resolution providing for a day to be known and observed as Mother's Day. In May of the same year a resolution passed the United States house of representatives and the senate commending Mother's Day for observance by the house and senate, by the president of the United States and his cabinet and by other heads of government departments, pursuant to which President Wilson issued a proclamation, setting aside the second Sunday in May as a national day of remembrance. Since then the observance of Mother's Day has spread to all parts of Europe, to Japan, China, Africa, Palestine and other countries.

Churches of every denomination hold services on the second Sunday in May. The Mother's Day International Association was organized by Miss Jarvis for the purpose of furthering the observance of Mother's Day in all countries. In the United States ex-President Taft is an honorary national officer of the association and the governor of each state is an honorary vice president. So this 1928 Mother's James Batson, pupil of the fifth grade, won the marble championship of McKinley grade school Tuesday, defeating Carl Neff in the finals by a score of 11 to 3. Batson eliminated Donald Bone in the semi-finals. Neff had won his way into the finals by trouncing Robert Harvey.

Thirty-six pupils participated in the McKinley tournament.

The marble championship of Spring Hill school will be decided Thursday. Harold Flint, fourth grade winner, and Paul Yeakley, champion of the sixth grade, are the finalists. Yeakley defeated Carl Blakely in the semi-finals this week.

The Dictator $1195 to $1395
F. O. B. FACTORY

BY traveling 5,000 miles in 4,751 consecutive minutes, the Studebaker Dictator has established a record unequaled by any stock car under $1400—comparable to the existing world record of 5,000 miles in 4,559 minutes made by the Studebaker Commander last fall.

And not one, but two Dictator Roadsters, fully equipped, each traveled 5,000 miles in less than that number of minutes. The run was made under the supervision of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association. Before and after the run, the cars were checked by the Technical Committee and were pronounced strictly stock models.

Erskine and The Dictator have made records unequaled by any other stock cars at or near their prices.

The high quality of materials, the precision workmanship, the rigid inspections and the engineering genius in the Studebaker Dictator are proved not only by its ability to travel 5,000 miles in less than 4,800 consecutive minutes, but also by the fact that any Dictator can be driven 40 miles per hour as soon as it leaves the assembly line at the factory. The engine and chassis dynamometer tests which Studebaker gives The Dictator are an exclusive Studebaker practice in cars of this price class.

We invite you to inspect The New Dictator which is offered in 10 body models at $1195 to $1395 f. o. b. factory. Backed by Studebaker's 76-year reputation for quality and value, The Dictator offers champion performance at a low One-Price price.

Editor The Gazette:
THE FOUNDER OF MOTHER'S DAY

As a tribute to her mother, Miss Anna Jarvis, a native of West Virginia, but now of Philadelphia, resolved to set aside a day in May of each year as a memorial to her. On that day she selected a white flower and wore it—fitting emblem, she thought, of the love and devotion between mother and child.

When her friends learned about it she told them she was going to observe the same day each year. They too became interested and asked her to arrange a service in which their entire community might have a part. While planning this memorial meeting to her own mother, the thought came to her: "Why not make it a national celebration in commemoration of the debt owed to mothers—a tribute of deference and respect not only to absent mothers but to all mothers and the homes?" Thus out of Miss Jarvis' own personal sorrow came the idea of Mother's Day.

The first observance was in Philadelphia. The day soon became recognized by other cities in the state of Pennsylvania and elsewhere. In 1914 Miss Jarvis called on a member of the house of representatives and requested him to introduce a resolution providing for a day to be known and observed as Mother's Day. In May of the same year a resolution passed the United States house of representatives and the senate commending Mother's Day for observance by the house and senate, by the president of the United States and his cabinet and by other heads of government departments, pursuant to which President Wilson issued a proclamation, setting aside the second Sunday in May as a national day of remembrance. Since then the observance of Mother's Day has spread to all parts of Europe, to Japan, China, Africa, Palestine and other countries.

Churches of every denomination hold services on the second Sunday in May. The Mother's Day International Association was organized by Miss Jarvis for the purpose of furthering the observance of Mother's Day in all countries. In the United States ex-President Taft is an honorary national officer of the association and the governor of each state is an honorary vice president. So this 1928 Mother's Day—citizens of every walk of life, in remembrance of our mothers, wear a white flower, which will serve as the key to unlock the door of past recollections of mother love and devotion. My own mother was a pioneer crusader.

LAW ENFORCEMENT LAGS IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, O., May 10.—Federal liquor law enforcement, according to United States officers, is in a slump in Cleveland while liquor trade is booming due to the alleged demoralization of the federal dry forces. Last year, approximately eighty violators were tried nearly every month. Last March only eleven liquor violators were apprehended and last April six persons were accused of bootlegging.

"Federal dry forces are demoralized," John B. Osmon, assistant United States district attorney in charge of prosecution of prohibition law violation declared. "Awaiting the outcome of civil service examinations agents are wondering whether they are to be retained or dismissed. This has brought about the present situation."

Radio Revue

BY C. KAY

Exclusively Central Press Dispatch to The Gazette

NEW YORK, May 10.—What are the alternatives to the constantly expanding exploitation of the air by radio advertisers?

Government subsidy is the only one, in the opinion of some broadcast notables.

Broadcasting has been mounting in expense to the producer since the first modest programs gave way to more and elaborate ones. Since air waves have been added to the printed page, the stage and other mediums of entertainment, remuneration of the performers has risen with the mechanical costs.

For a time in the early days of broadcasting it was generally believed that sufficient revenue might be obtained from the sale of radio receivers, accessories and supplies, but it was soon learned that the long life of the average radio set would make it impossible to meet the high cost of broadcasting in this manner.

Efforts to establish a system of broadcasting of entertainment that would make programs accessible only to owners of metered sets have so far failed. It has been proposed to raise funds for broadcasting through public subscription, but responses to this have been discouraging.

Broadcasters were pondering the question, "Who will pay for radio?" when the problem solved itself. Business firms seized upon radio as a new means of boosting business.

Advertisers began to take heed of the opportunities awaiting them in the use of the microphone, which was an open door to millions of homes from Pacific to Atlantic.

So the sponsored program, with its method of providing the public with entertainment in return for patronage and that ephemeral thing called "good will," came to solve, for the time being, the broadcaster's economic problem.

Meanwhile, certain organizations and advertisers were building or gaining control of smaller stations. Many of these did not attempt to advertise here to the ethical principles that bound the use of the air by advertisers sponsoring programs broadcast in the national book-ings or by metropolitan stations individually, as for instance, the mail-order concern, in Iowa, which uses its station to sell overalls, garden seeds and other merchandise by direct appeal. Hence the agitation for strict regulation of the use of radio for advertising purposes which is growing.

Advertising is the life blood of newspapers and magazines. Almost no newspaper or magazine is able to exist on circulation revenue alone. Broadcasting stations have no direct revenue from their audiences. Without economic support from advertisers, there will be little or no broadcasting progress of benefit to the millions who depend upon radio for entertainment. This argument of some broadcasters is met with the suggestion that the government might easily make radio pay its way by levying a license tax upon listeners, which would be turned over to broadcasters for the promotion of programs. There is no doubt that the subsidy idea will be fought by the radio industry.

Meanwhile, certain organizations and advertisers were building or gaining control of smaller stations. Many of these did not attempt to advertise here to the ethical principles that bound the use of the air by advertisers sponsoring programs broadcast in the national back-ups or by metropolitan stations individually, as for instance, the mail-order concern, in Iowa, which uses its station to sell overalls, garden seeds and other merchandise by direct appeal. Hence the agitation for strict regulation of the use of radio for advertising purposes which is growing.

Advertising is the life blood of newspapers and magazines. Almost no newspaper or magazine is able to exist on circulation revenue alone. Broadcasting stations have no direct revenue from their audiences. Without economic support from advertisers, there will be little or no broadcasting progress of benefit to the millions who depend upon radio for entertainment.

This argument of some broadcasters is met with the suggestion that the government might easily make radio pay its way by levying a license tax upon listeners, which would be turned over to broadcasters for the promotion of programs. There is no doubt that the subsidy idea will be fought by the radio industry.

BILL FOR MUSCLE SHOALS IS TABLED

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Having withstood both direct assaults and filibustering tactics, the house bill providing for government manufacture of fertilizer and hydro-electric power at Muscle Shoals was temporarily laid aside today.

Unless house leaders provide a special rule for the measure, consideration is scheduled to be resumed on next Wednesday when the military affairs committee again has the right-of-way on the floor.

Backers of the bill, somewhat disappointed at failing to bring it to a final vote but confident that they will have a majority on the final roll call, declared that they had won a moral victory in the premature of house leaders that an early adjournment will not be allowed to prevent a vote.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Henry Ford is the owner today of a horse car presented to him in front of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company's barn.

The car, known as a "jigger," is a relic of 1868. It was in service for twenty-nine years and is the oldest of its kind in existence.

SWEETHEARTS

AUTHOR of "MY SON'S SWEETHEARTS," "CONFESSIONS OF A WIFE," ETC.

READ THIS FIRST:

Lynda Fenton, a singularly innocent girl, is private secretary to Ralph Armitage. Her father, a drunkard, tells her that her mother deserted them, and that all women have their price.

Lynda meets Emily Andrews, who cherishes a secret fondness for David Kenmore, Lynda's companion from childhood. Emily plots against Lynda from the very beginning. David tells Lynda he loves her, but she decides she doesn't want to be in love with any man. David is away on a trip.

Lynda and Claire, too, deserts her, and Claire Stanhope comes to live with her. Ralph Armitage meets with an accident, and Lynda goes to his home on business, where he is enthralled by her innocent charms. Next day he tells her that he loves her.

June Challer, who has annexed money through a jazz party, Lynda and Claire Stanhope attend, and so does Ralph Armitage. But Ralph is still an invalid, and spends the evening on a divan. Emily Andrews has written David insinuating news pertaining to Lynda and Ralph Armitage, and David, worried, hurries home. He arrives late at the party, where Emily subtly leads him to a view of Lynda's innocent efforts to make Ralph comfortable. He sees Ralph clasp her arms and hears him curse when others interrupt them.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XLIII

ENTER DAVID

"Oh, there you are, Ralph," accosted Hal Galbraith, as he spied the couple behind the sheltering palms. "I told Pam we'd find you somewhere around—Pamella, this is Miss Fenton. You have heard her voice many times over the phone. You should know who is talking, Lynda, the next time she telephones. Let me introduce you, Miss Fenton, to Miss Pamella Sheston."

"I'll leave her here, Ralph, while I take Miss Fenton out for a dance. You need not think because you happened to be knocked out, you can monopolize one of the belles of the ball."

Lynda did not know how to refuse, and Ralph had to content himself by saying to her, softly: "Tell that Indian to bring you back to me when you are through dancing."

Pamella plunged into that which concerned her most.

"So that is the young woman whom you are going to put in my place, Ralph?"

The groan that Ralph Armitage gave before he answered, told David, on the other side of the palms, that he knew he was in for a bad quarter of an hour, even before Emily leaned forward and whispered to him, with a little laugh: "Here is where Armi is going to get his."

"I hardly know what you mean, Pamella," they heard Ralph answer. "Whatever place you seem to think I am going to deprive you of will certainly not be given to Lynda Fenton. She is no actress, and even you could not imagine her in the latest reverie which you grace so beautifully."

"I am glad of that. I might make it hot for both of you if you did."

"You ought to know me well enough, Pam," said Ralph, his voice trembling with rage. "To know that I don't care worth a cent, and that I never pay any attention to threats."

"Ralph, only last spring you promised—"

Ralph interrupted.

"Yes, I promised, or rather, we promised each other, that when either of us grew tired of the other's company the game would be ended."

"Does that mean that you are tired, Ralph?" It spoke well for Miss Sheston's ability as an actress that there were tears in her eyes and almost a sob in her voice.

"Why do you make me explain, Pam? I want always wants a corner to be so explicit. You have known for a long while that we bored each other. I have grown very tired, if not disgusted, of being used as something on which to hang a publicity story about the eccentric and beautiful Miss Sheston. By the way, that one that you pulled off with Fred Blague, you not tell, if I had been the one who had so affectionately bade adieu—or was it an revoir?—it would have gotten into all the newspapers."

David was not paying much attention to the conversation on the other side of the leafy screen. He was looking out into the big room, where the crowd was getting so dense, it was impossible to see Lynda. At last he saw her. Hal had taken her to a booth in the corner of the room, and they seemed to be in quite an interesting conversation.

"What is the matter with you, David? Your attentions are certainly not overwhelming. I do not think you have said three sentences since we sat down at this table, and you have positively eaten nothing."

"I thought, Emily, that you asked me to get home to the party because if I did not, Lynda would have a bad break. She seems, as far as I can see, to be holding her own. Ralph Armitage is quarrelling over her with Miss Sheston, while she is supposed to be dancing with Hal. I don't think she needs me. Another captive would probably mess up her chariot wheels beyond repair."

Emily Andrews was happy to hear David make these savage remarks, but it was no part of her plan to let Lynda know that David was in town until he had heard Ralph make love to her.

Emily was getting nervous, however, over the whole business, because if Hal Galbraith did not bring Lynda back pretty soon, she did not know how she could keep David quiet.

Fortunately, just as she decided that Hal was going to mope up the whole thing, he came straggling back with Lynda.

It was not flattering to her to see how quickly David sat up. He half arose as if he were going to meet Lynda, when Ralph caught sight of Lynda and called.

"I thought Hal had drowned you in a punch bowl or inveigled you into sitting out in his car."

"Does Mr. Armitage think that his secretaries are under orders after working hours, Miss Fenton?" asked Pamella, sweetly.

"Cat," said Ralph, in an undertone. "Miss Fenton is not under orders from me," he said with decision. "She kindly offered, however, to sit beside me part of the time tonight."

BILL FOR MUSCLE
SHOALS IS TABLEDWASHINGTON, May 10.—Having withstood both direct assaults and filibustering tactics, the house bill providing for government manufacture of fertilizer and hydro-electric power at Muscle Shoals was temporarily laid aside today.Unless house leaders provide a special rule for the measure, consideration is scheduled to be resumed on next Wednesday when the military affairs committee again has the right-of-way on the floor.

Backers of the bill, somewhat disappointed at failing to bring it to a final vote but confident that they will have a majority on the final roll call, declared that they had won a moral victory in the promise of house leaders that an early adjournment will not be allowing to prevent a vote.HENRY FORD GIVEN

OLD HORSE CARNEW YORK, May 10.—Henry
Ford is the owner today of a horse car presented to him in front of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company's barn.The car, known as a "jigger," is a relic of 1868. It was in service for twenty-nine years and is the oldest of its kind in existence.

deserted them, and that all women have their price.Lynda meets Emily Andrews, who cherishes a secret fondness for David Kenmore, Lynda's com-against Lynda from the very beginning. David tells Lynda he loves her, but she decides she doesn't want to be in love with any man.Lynda's father, too, deserts her, and Claire Stanhope comes to live with her. Ralph Armistage meets with an accident, and Lynda goes money, throws a jazz party. Lynda and Claire Stanhope attend, and so does Ralph Armistage. But Ralph is ning on a divan. Emily Andrews home. He arrives late at the party,

The THEATER

Once gum-chewing piano players in nickelodeons soft-pedaled "Hearts and Flowers" or thumped out "The Stars and Stripes Forever." How far the musical accompaniment of motion pictures has progressed since those days of improvisation was revealed to me by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld, director general of United Artists theaters, formerly first violin of the Vienna Opera and concert master of Oscar Hammerstein's Manhattan Opera House, in New York.

The process of scoring pictures is manifold. They demand an encyclopedic knowledge of the world music.

"First of all, in scoring," he explains, "you see the picture through. You get the general background—American, Spanish, French, etc. You mentally master your sources. Next you divide your picture into scenes. You will find that the average reel, 1000 feet of film, will display twelve or thirteen moods. Occasionally you have to insert a musical quotation into one of these moods—a brief variant—but I personally prefer to paint with a bolder, broader stroke, if you get the simile. For instance, I do not believe in using two bars of music to express menace as the heavy enters. I like to cover the whole mood with a single selection."

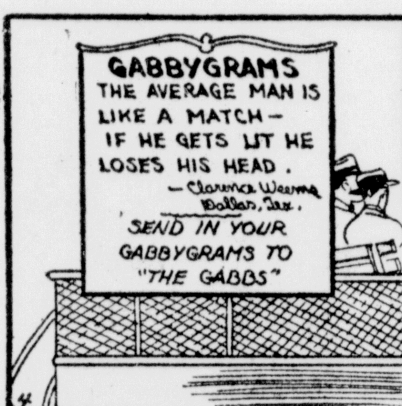

Screen plays with European backgrounds are far easier to score, Dr. Riesenfeld finds, than those in the American scene. "This results from the scarcity of characteristic American music, excepting jazz, which is described by Riesenfeld as source music from the negro. Most difficult of all pictures to score, contends the musician, is the American society drama. He finds no mood corresponding to it in the music of this country."

Is there an all-embracing, thoroughly characteristic musical selection expressive of the spirit of America? Dr. Riesenfeld finds generalization difficult on the subject, but suggests Stephen Foster's "Oh Susanna" as the nearest approach.

Novel and interesting are Riesenfeld's musical reactions to the personalities of some of the famous stars of the screen. What does Gloria Swanson suggest to him? A fox-trot. Charles Chaplin? Not a comedy.

Messrs. Lawrence Wilson and George Schlesinger have entered into a business that their friends predict will be a successful one, that of civil engineering.

Mrs. E. H. Carruthers, who has been spending the winter in Philadelphia, arrived in Xenia Saturday.

The new ladder wagon has been moved into the upper fire department and the other equipment will be in readiness soon. The company parade at noon drew a large crowd.

The Theological Seminary has closed for the term and the students are dispersing to the four corners of the country.

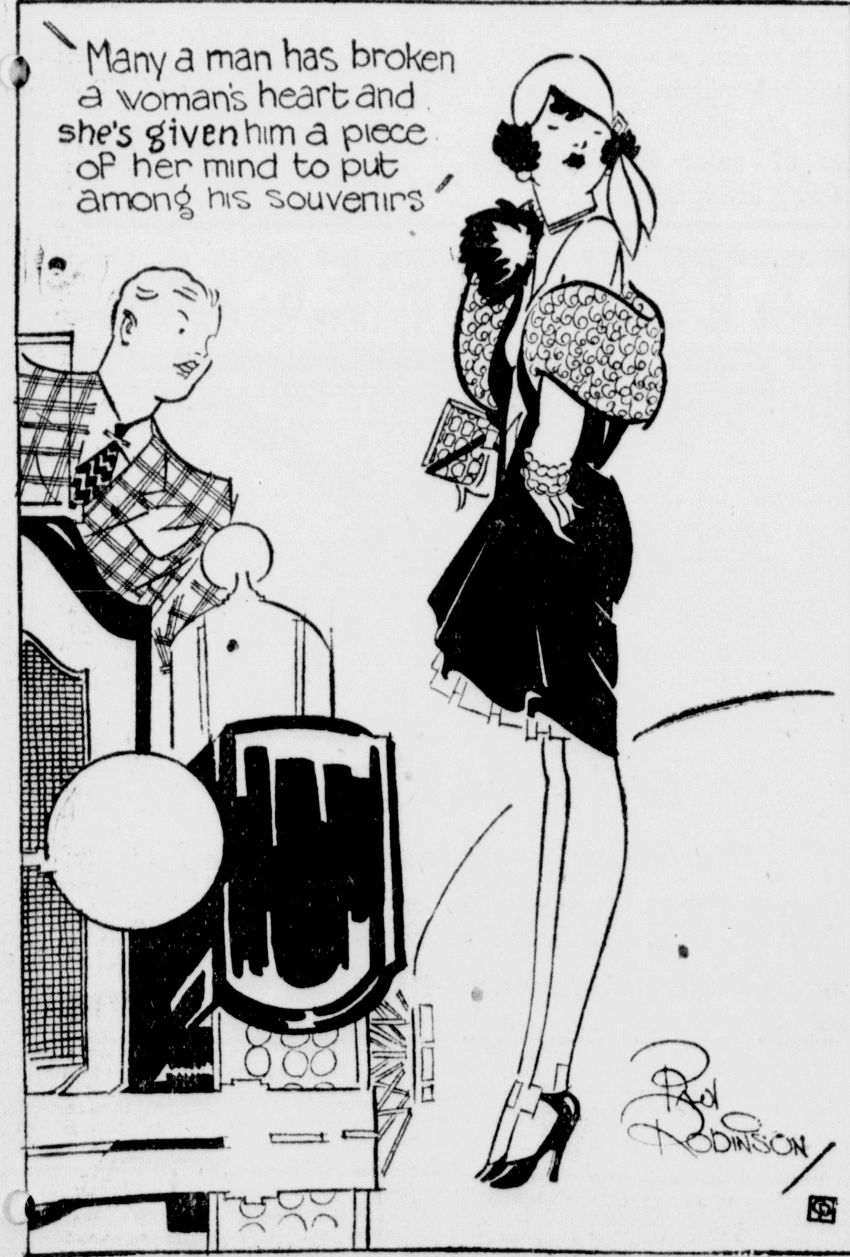

SUNDAY MOVIE CASE IGNORED BY JURY

MARION, May 10.—The Marion County grand jury today ignored the "Sunday movie" case of Edward F. Sharpless, Marion theater owner, in making its report.

Sharpless was indicted by another grand jury several months ago for operating his theater on Sunday but a jury in common pleas court was unable to reach a verdict. A second hearing is scheduled on the court docket for this month. Despite his first indictment Sharpless continued Sunday operation of the show and was arrested and bound over to the present session.

Six indictments were returned by the grand jury.

ONDON PREPARING O ENTERTAIN MANY TOURISTS THIS YEAR

LONDON, May 10.—"London is a city out of the Modern Arabian Nights, and already a bigger number of visitors than ever before have planned to visit it this year," declares an expert on London's traffic.

People whose fingers are on the pulse of the world's tourist arteries say that London this year will be a cosmopolitan capital crowded with visitors from the five continents. They declare:

Bookings from America are already big, and, according to steamship companies, are growing bigger every day.

Hotels of all grades state that rooms are being feverishly engaged even now for the summer season.

The shops of London—many of them new since last year in the transformed Regent Street area—are making ready for a record time. "The purchases made by the King and Queen of Afghanistan have drawn the world's eyes to the stores of new London," they say. That is the secret—"the new London."

CAT CONQUERS DOG FOE

NEW ALBANY, Ind.—About a year ago a big yellow cat produced a litter of kittens, but a neighbor's dog slew all of them. Recently, when the cat was about to increase the cat population, she disappeared. The owner missed her for a few days, then she appeared seeking food. One day she was discovered in a tree. Investigation disclosed that she had found refuge in a hollow tree, twenty feet from the ground, where she had constructed a nest and was caring for four kittens. Her ingenuity won the admiration of her owner and he built her and her family a safe home in the garage and transferred the whole brood to their new home.

FREE OF HEALTH TROUBLES SINCE HE GOT KONJOLA

"It Certainly Ended My Stomach Trouble", Says This Man

Everywhere in Xenia and all the nearby towns, men and women are highly recommending this Konjola medicine which the Konjola Man is now explaining to the public at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia. Konjola is helping thousands of people who were benefited by any medicine or treatment before. It is especially beneficial in cases of stomach, liver, kidneys and bowel troubles, or rheumatism or neuritis.

Just a few days ago the following report was received from Mr. Noah M. Seevers, 1914 Cherry Avenue, Alliance, Ohio.

"I strongly indorse Konjola after the amazing relief it gave me from all my health troubles", said Mr. Seevers, "It certainly ended my stomach trouble and my whole system has been greatly benefited."

"I had been treated for heart trouble when I found out that the real reason for the trouble was a disordered stomach. Because of this, gas would form and press against my heart making it palpitate and flutter. I would become distressed after meals and all the medicine I took for relief had no effect on me. As the months went by I steadily grew worse until it was almost impossible for me to eat anything without suffering afterward. Just at that time I discovered Konjola and immediately began taking this medicine. The relief I gained was really surprising. My stomach is in perfect condition and I am eating solid foods without a sign of indigestion. Gas and bloating spells never come over me. I feel many years younger and since I took Konjola I can work every day without getting tired out. Konjola was a blessing to my health."

"Konjola also helped my wife in an astonishing manner. She had been suffering miserably from neuritis in her shoulders, arms and neck. It was almost impossible for her to turn her head without awful agony. In fact her whole body was a solid mass of aches and pains. But now that condition is ended, because she took Konjola. It went right to the source of her trouble and cleansed the poison that caused the neuritis. Every trace of that ailment is gone. This medicine also strengthened her nerves and regulated her stomach organs so that the ugly symptoms so common to that ailment are ended. Her energy and vitality has increased a hundred fold and she now enjoys sound and all-night sleep getting up the next morning feeling refreshed and ready for the day's work."

"Konjola has been a Godsend to our home, because it completely ended awful suffering for both my wife and myself. We are telling all our friends about this medicine and we hope that through this indorsement others will benefit as we have."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.
